Warsaw Radio Says That City Still Holds Out

Tales Of Horror And Heroism Come Out Of Beleaguered City Over Air

GERMANS CONTINUE INCESSANT ATTACK

Dispite Destruction In City Polish Continue To Keep Up Defense

By GEORGE BALINT

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 25—Tales of horror and heroism, destruction and madness, crackled today from the Warsaw radio station as the half-destroyed Polish capital fought on through unceasing German bombardments.

Music by Chopin was transmitted at intervals between news broadcasts which told dramatically that at least 1000 civilians were killed in firing which went on incessantly since Saturday afternoon.

Half the houses in Warsaw were on fire, the announcer said. Many have leaped to their death from flaming buildings, and many more have gone insane and committed suicide.

Streets Filled With Dead

The radio gave macabre descriptions of streets filled with dead, while nurses rush into the streets to aid the wounded only, in many cases, to meet death themselves. of Saint etaoin shrdlu cmfwypen

British And French Reject Peace Feelers By Italian Premier

(International News Service)

Warsaw, its streets said by Poles to be littered with dead, its building aflame, but its defenders fighting on, today was a smoking example of what modern war means, but it failed to daunt the French and British in their determination not to succumb to any German peace gestures.

Italian Premier Mussolini's speech urging that now was the time to end the war, and Germany's statement that the campaign in Poland is concluded were feelers which Chancellor Hitler was expected to follow up shortly with more concrete peace proposals.

Turned Down In Advance

But these were turned down in advance—and Britain and France now believe that Chancellor Hitler is at last convinced that he is in for a fight to the finish on the western front.

Il Duce suggested that since Germany had presented an accomplished fact in Poland, and that

See Preparations For Major Engagement Along Western Front

By KENNETH T. DOWNS

PARIS, Sept. 25.—With further French advances and Geman reverses on the Saar front, preparations for a major engagement today were said in authoritative French military quarters to be "budding slowly."

Communique No. 43 this morning said: "Local improvement was made in our positions.

"The enemy's artillery was active southeast of Zweibrucken."

In the feinting and probing for position over the week end, according to the French, three German battalions and numerous small patrols were wiped out. (An European continental army battalion consists of from 480 to 1600 men.)

Defeat German Counter Attacks

Following the defeat of numerous German counter-attacks, the French consolidated their positions and held all the ground they had gained.

In preparation for an offensive, the French brought up reinforcements as the Germans made persistent attacks.

King Carol At Funeral For Slain Premier

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 25. Stringent measures against any internal action which might result in foreign intervention continued in Rumania today following last rites for Armand Calinescu, the premier who was assassinated Thursday by members of the Pro-Nazi iron guard.

King Carol 11 risked his own life to attend services in Bucharest for his slain friend and close adviser. He was, however, closely guarded when state officials and government authorities paid tribute to Calinescu at the Athenium in Bucharest.

Young Crown Prince Michael marched alone behind the hearse, which was drawn by six oxen, to the place of burial. Scores of important figures made the trip, but King Carol remained in Bucharest.

As the coffin was lifted from the train, police arrested Spanish Minister Pratt Y. Souza's chauffeur and threatened to shoot him on the ground that he was a member of the iron guard. The minister later secured the chauffeur's release on the plea that his opinions had been changed.

The ships arrived at 3:15 p. m., and came down by threes, proceeding to the aircraft carrier Langley, which arrived in Manila yesterday.

The bombers followed the route used by the Pan American line and the trip was uneventful. However, one ship remained at Midway, having developed engine trouble.

British Navy Seeks To Bottle Up German Subs

Hope To Prevent U-Boats From Reaching Bases Of Supplies

SEVERAL MORE SHIPS ARE SUNK

Swedish Steamer Is One Of Latest To Be Sent Down By Submarines

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 25—Britain's naval campaign against German submarines entered a new phase today after the sinking of the 31st British merchantman, as warships strove to bottle up German submarines which are now running low on supplies.

Most of the u-boats have been to sea from three to four weeks, it was believed, and the British hope to prevent their returning to bases for supplies, or venturing to sea again.

The Freighter Hazelside was shelled and sunk within sight of the South Irish shore Sunday by two u-boats. Twenty-two members of her crew were picked up after they took to lifeboats, but 12 are missing.

The Hazelside was en route from British Columbia to Liverpool. She was a vessel of 4646 tons.

The 1510-ton Gertrud Blatt, a Swedish steamer bound with a cargo of cellulose for Bristol, Eng., was sent to the bottom off South Norway. A German airplane also took part in action against the ship. The crew of 18 was saved in lifeboats.

Since the outbreak of the war the toll of merchant ships is: Britisn 31; 148,913 onts; German, 4; 14,764 tons; French, 1; 3747 tons; neutrals 9, 25,002 tons.

Check-Rein On Powers Of President Provided In Neutrality Measure

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A vital check-rein on President Roosevelt's discretionary powers has been written into proposed cash-and-carry neutrality legislation by its administration sponsors, it was disclosed today when a draft of the bill was put before the full senate foreign relations committee.

Under the bill, congress would have the authority to invoke the nation's neutrality law in any international emergency whenever it felt that the president was unwise in delaying application of the law's restrictions against foreign belligerents.

Congress Could Act

Should the president fail to apply the neutrality law, it could be placed in effect by a simple concurrent resolution of the house and senate.

Carefully drafted to keep presidential discretion at a minimum, the proposed bill, already approved by 15 of the 16 Democratic members of the foreign relations committee, came as a surprise to forces fighting the president's proposal to sub-

Floyd Gibbons Taken By Death

Noted Correspondent Of World War Dies At Stroudsburg, Pa.

HEART AILMENT CAUSE OF DEATH

(International News Service)

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 25.—Death today had forever stilled the tireless typewriter fingers and the machine gun voice of Floyd Gibbons, one of the most famous of war correspondents, as the new war which might have given him his greatest assignment, raged on in Europe.

Although the once-rugged six foot Gibbons, whose trade-mark was a white linen patch over his missing left eye, had experienced perilous adventure while on assignment in virtually every quarter of the globe, he died peacefully on his farm in Cherry Valley, near Stroudsburg. He was 52.

Heart Ailment Cause

The heart ailment which claimed Gibbons' life had kept him virtually an invalid for the past several months but only yesterday a report was current on Broadway that the veteran war correspondent had smelled gunpowder again and was to be given an assignment covering the new war.

Gibbons was perpetually present when the big war news broke and this led the late Will Rogers to observe of a threatening war:

"It's not official until Gibbons arrives."

The eye Gibbons lost on a French battlefield in the World War was the price he paid for a career of excitement such as few newspaper-

"Dawn Patrol" Of 58 Visiting Airplanes Land At Airport Sunday Morning

BIGGEST EVENT IN AVIATION LOCALLY

With an estimated crowd of between 10,000 and 12,000 persons making the New Castle airport their destination Sunday, the closing events in a week's celebration of Air Progress were successfully staged.

Beginning at eight o'clock and continuing until 10 o'clock Sunday morning, a steady line of "dawn patrols" from cities within a radius of 150 miles of this city landed at the airport. At 10 o'clock, with a total of 58 visiting airplanes on the field, the flyers and their passengers were transported to The Castleton hotel, where a tasty menu was served.

Approximately 90 persons were given a sample of New Castle hospitality at breakfast. The breakfast brought together an interesting convention of flyers and air enthusiasts at the local hotel.

Greater New Castle Association was host to the airmen at the aviation breakfast.

Three city policemen, Walter Tewell, Cecil Suber and James Hagan, were placed on trial before Judge W. Britain Again Refuses Peace On Hitler Terms

Emphatically Rejects Overtures Suggested In Mussolini Speech

HITLERISM MUST GO ENGLAND REITERATES

Chamberlain's Expressed Stand On Cause Of War Is Again Stressed

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 25—Britain's reply to German peace overtures sent via Rome today was a resounding double-barreled "No."

First was a flat rejection of the German "fait accompli" in Poland, coupled with a reiteration that that Britain and France would fight to their goal—the extermination of Hitlerism.

Second was the announcement from "somewhere in France" that the British expeditionary force is still moving into position and concentrating forces preparatory to going into action.

Reply To Mussolinia

Peace feelers came Saturday, through Premier Mussolini of Italy who suggested that any further extension of the war, after Germany had acquired what she wanted in Poland, seemed unreasonable. The ministry of information replied promptly.

"Official circles understand and appreciate the sincerity of Signor Mussolini's motives."

"But the suggestions that by no spreading the conflict further in view of the Russian "Fait accompli" Great Britain and France have compromised their moral justification for attempting to annul the German "fait accompli" is not understood here.

"The decision of the British people to declare war was indeed a direct consequence of the invasion of Poland—but invasion of Poland was itself but further illustration of the lawlessness in international affairs when it is the principal purpose of this country to resist."

To Redeem Europe

The statement then repeated Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's statement to Parliament, that Britain's purpose in this struggle "is to redeem Europe from the recurring fear of German aggression, and enable the people of Europe to preserve their independence and their liberties."

Whatever may be the results of

President Returns To White House

Ends Stay At Hyde Park, N. Y.

Comes Back To Capital To Direct Battle On Neutrality Legislation

NO ENGAGEMENTS ON DAY'S SCHEDULE

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—President Roosevelt returned to Washington this morning from Hyde Park to resume personal direction of the administration's fight in congress to get the arms embargo repealed.

The two-day stay at his family home on the Hudson afford the president his first real rest since the European war broke out.

Despite his obvious intention of assuming direct command of strategy in the impending senate battle, the president came back to the White House without any advance engagements. He may see—probably will—various senate leaders during the day but the appointments were not arranged overnight.

The executive also had decided not to call in the "big four"—Vice-President Garner, Speaker Bankhead, Senate majority leader Barkley and house majority leader Rayburn—as is his custom on Monday during regular sessions of congress. Whether the practice will be resumed later in the special session was not made known.

BRITISH AND FRENCH REJECT PEACE FEELERS

since Britain did not declare war on the Soviet Union for its invasion of Poland, it was absurd to carry on the conflict.

With unswerving purpose Britain replied through the ministry of information: The German invasion was a further illustration of the lawlessness in international affairs which it is the principal purpose of this country to resist."

The ministry repeated the purpose of the conflict as stated by Premier Chamberlain: "To redeem Europe from the perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression."

French Share View

French official quarters, as they have made clear in repeated statements in the last few weeks, share this view and they are especially determined that Germany shall not drive a diplomatic wedge between Britain and France.

Nevertheless, Hitler was expected to raise the olive branch shortly, if not directly or through Italy, then by way of some benevolently neutral country.

If Anglo-French persistance has persuaded him finally that a long and hard war is inevitable, his peace gesture, in the allies' view will be aimed to put the blame for the war on London and Paris.

Charred Warsaw sent out broadcasts telling of carnage—interspersed with music by Chopin. More than 1000 civilians have been killed in a German bombardment that has gone on without ceasing since Saturday afternoon, the Warsaw radio station asserted.

Ten air raids occurred Sunday, and hundreds were reported killed in a hospital.

Warsaw Appeals For Aid

Warsaw appealed urgently for Anglo-French aid, and in spite of the virtual collapse of Polish resistance at points other than the Warsaw area, there appeared in London a significant British agency dispatch saying Warsaw officials believed their S.O.S. might be answered.

Chancellor Hitler was reported in London to be rushing her troops and airplanes to the western front. There the Germans have carried out numerous probing movements, but no large German offensive is looked for until after Hitler's final peace gesture.

All the German counter-attacks, according to French commentators, were repulsed, and the French were able to make still further gains.

Poilus, it was asserted, have reached the outskirts of Saarbruecken, and are within sight of Zweibruecken.

Thirty-one British ships now have been sunk by the German, for a tonnage loss of 148,913. But the British say the U-boat campaign has about reached the end of its effectiveness. The submersibles have been at sea for nearly four weeks, their crews are worn, and they are running low on supplies. The might of the British navy is concentrating now on seeing that they either are cut off from base, or are not permitted to put to sea again.

and National Theater were burned to ashes, the radio station announced.

Appalling Sights

Appalling sights were witnessed when the Ujazdowsky hospital was bombed and hundreds of patients were killed, the broadcast asserted. Doctors and nurses struggled through the night to find the wounded in the debris, their search lights merely bringing to view fresh horrors.

After the strains of Chopin died away and the Warsaw announcer ended his news broadcasts, he cried out in an agitated voice:

"England! France! Please rush help—we are being slaughtered!"

Nevertheless, it was asserted, the morale of the civilians and soldiers remains high, and the announcer said "Our soldiers will continue to fight on to victory."

(An exchange telegraph—British-Dispatch from Warsaw said that early assistance for Warsaw was indispensible if hundreds of thousands of lives are to be saved. Warsaw officials believe that in spite of the circumstances, the city's SOS will be answered, said exchange.)

BRITAIN AGAIN REFUSES PEACE ON HITLER TERMS

Soviet action in Poland, the ministry's bulletin concluded, "this purpose will be prosecuted with unflinching determination."

That Poland is only the last of the victims of German aggression was stressed in the Daily Herald, which pointed to Austria, Spain, and Czechoslovakia.

If Hitler is not stopped now, the paper said, "many other countries will be invaded in the months to come."

Viscount Halifax, British foreign minister, summoned Ivan Maisky the Soviet ambassador Saturday evening, and asked him for a statement on the ambitions of Russia in Poland, it was learned.

Halifax also asked Maisky for a definite outline from the Soviets on their future intentions in the greater sphere of the European war.

He covered the World War, the Japanese invasion of China in 1932 and the Italian conquest of Ethiopia, among other war assignments.

His newspaper assignments took him all over the world, and it often was said of him that he crowded a century of thrills into a few years.

came streaking towards various French positions along a 60-mile front—first by companies, then by battalions then again by smaller units such as patrols.

Germany artillery constantly pounded the French lines.

The nature of the German action, with units repeatedly thrown into the forays, showed according to French observers, that in spite of the waste of man-power, the Germans are determine to find any weak spots in the French line.

Use Swift Tanks

In battering back the German assaults, the French used swift baby tanks to assist machine gun and automatic rifle units.

Air fighting remained minor and localized, with the French assering that allied reconnaissance is proving far superior to the enemy's. Flights are mainly confined to mapping and picture-making expeditions.

Experts in Paris estimate that the Germans have no more than 24 army divisions on the western front, and will not be able to reinforce them by more than 20 divisions from Poland for the time being.

Military circles believed the enemy shortly will open still larger counter-attacks, probably northeast of the Lauter river in the wooded hills near where the French frontier reaches the Rhine river.

At Outskirts Of Saarbrucken

French troops have reached the outskirts of Saarbrucken, large industrial city in the Saarland, and are within sight of Zweibruecken, it was reported in Paris.

This approach worries the German general staff, say the French, causing the Germans anxiety over the safety of Saarbrucken, Zweibruecken, Pirmasens and Bergzabern.

Those four points were said to be under French artillery fire.

With further charges that German airplanes attacked civilian populations in Poland, Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., United States ambassador to Poland, was in Paris today following a harrowing trip out through Rumania.

Biddle estimated that the Germans used 5000 airplanes, attacking the Poles in waves from East Prussia, Austria and Slovakia.

"The German airplanes made a general attack on the interior of Poland, while Polish planes were confined to operations with their army," Biddle said.

"From what I learned from trustworthy sources, and from what we saw ourselves, the Poles were able to bring down more than 300 Nazi planes."

southeast squall as she returned from Anacapa island to the Point Mugu fishing camp. The pilot house, where 24 of the 26 passengers were believed huddled, immediately was torn away by ground swells.

"Someone pushed a life preserver at me in the hold and somehow I got out safely," said Abe Agins, Warner Bros. paint set foreman. "I felt a terrific jar when the boat hit the shore but I didn't know what had happened."

The storm smashed vessels against piers, breakwaters and beaches. It was a tragic finale to the worst heat wave ever to visit southern California. From all sections of the coast came reports of rescues.

Tragedy piled on tragedy. Coast guardsmen were unable to find a trace of three youths who were seen clinging to a skiff off Point Fermin. Two lost their lives when a cabin cruiser was dashed against the Los Angeles breakwater. A woman was drowned when a yacht capsized at Newport beach. Two youths died in the surf at Brighton beach on Terminal island.

No word had been received from two sport boats, Dispatch and Indiana. These craft had 70 persons aboard. A report that one of the ships had the other under tow was unconfirmed.

The gale was severe at Los Angeles harbor where the United States fleet, prepared for maneuvers, stood with steam up prepared to scurry to safety if the winds increased in violence. The navy did not verify a report that a destroyer had been slightly damaged.

Power lines were broken in San Fernando valley, where a number of motion picture notables reside, by high winds. The rain was general.

The population of Algoy, southwest of Bergen, Norway, reported hearing heavy gunfire at intermittent intervals since early morning.

Houses and windows shook under the impact of explosions.

Late last night, warships were visible on the horizon, moving slowly and cautiously in what was believed to be a heavily-mined area.

At about the same time, fifteen or twenty German trawlers arrived off Hjeltefjord in the vicinity of Algoy.

No further details of the reported sea battle were known.

stitute cash-and-carry provisions of the present absolute embargo on the shipment of U. S. arms to warring nations.

Administration leaders were confident that the bill's stringent provisions would win supporters from the anti-repeal opposition, but the so-called "isolationists" stuck to their slogan: "no repeal of the present arms embargo."

BRITISH NAVY SEEKS TO BOTTLE UP GERMAN SUBS

zelside's crew were picked up after six hours afloat on a small boat and a raft. Five were injured, one seriously. The captain is among the missing.

No Warning Given

Radio operator Birkett, one of the injured, said the merchantman was fired on without warning." Two members of the crew were killed outright," he asserted, "and two of the ship's lifeboats were wrecked."

A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said sinking of the Gertrud Blatt created a furore in Sweden, where it was stated that the sinking of neutral ships affects all northern countries.

If, it was argued, the Germans decided that cellulose is contra- they might as well say butter is contraband.

Reuters said the Swedes affirmed it would not be surprising if Sweden refused to supply Germany with iron ore. This stoppage, it was held, would be a blow to Germany, who has been importing 6,000,000 tons of ore yearly from Sweden.

OPEN TRIAAL OF POLICE OFFICERS

were dressed, he said. On the way back from the hospital, he claimed that one of the men pointed a gun at him from the front of the patrol. When he called the policeman a name, he claims that the policeman got out, came to the rear of the car and again beat him with a blackjack.

Cross-Examination

On cross-examination the defense sought to show the reputation of the defendant. It was shown that a gun had been found between the ticks of the bed on which Bell was lying, a fact that he had admitted on his direct examination. Bell also denied that there had been any trouble of any kind about his place, previous to the arrival of the police. He admitted that he had been in trouble before, having been arrested here for drunken driving. At that time two butcher knives and a rifle were found in his home. The defense had them in court and showed them to the jury.

It was also admitted by the defendant that he had done time in the Allegheny county workhouse, on two occasions, of four months each. He had been sent up from South View, Pa. He had served thirty days here on a drunken driving charge. Bell also admitted that he had been fingerprinted. He was questioned at some length about the making of the information before 'Squire Kimmel at Lakewood. He said Attorney Keller had taken him to the squire's office. Questions were also asked Bell regarding his attendance at a Communistic meeting held in a hall on Washington street.

Wife Testifies

Leola Bell, wife of the prosecutor, testified that her husband had not been beating her and had not threatened her with a gun. She knew where the gun was kept between the mattresses, and said that it was not loaded. On the evening when the police arrived, she said there had been no trouble in the home. She had gone out to get a paper of tobacco at a near by grocery. As she was returning she heard her husband yelling and sounds as of someone beating him. She ran to the house and saw the policemen. They were beating her husband, she said. There were four, and she recognized the three defendants. Bell was lying on the floor when she saw him, and she said that he was struck while he was handcuffed. She said her husband was dragged down the stairs and thrown into the bottom of a car.

Mrs. Bell exhibited to the jury the shirt her husband had worn and also the sheet from the bed. They were both bloodstained. Mrs. Bell said she had been mistaken about Ray Richards being one of the policemen concerned in the beating.

James Hill, a tinworker, said that he was in front of a barbershop adjoining the Bell home when the police arrived. He had not heard any disturbance about the place. After finding the number they were looking for one of them peered under a window curtain. The police then entered the house and witness soon heard yells and sounds as of some one getting a beating.

"Did it sound like some one striking a body?" was asked.

"No," he replied, "it sounded like some one striking a head."

Frank Wagner, barber in the house adjoining Bell's said that everything had been quiet about the place until the police arrived. He had heard the beating. Court adjourned for lunch.

FAITH

From all indications, at the present time, it looks as though our Country is about to have a change in business, which will mean better times, more employment and a greater amount of money put into circulation.

We hope that the American people will profit by the lessons they learned during the last depression, and in place of spending to the limit and even beyond the limit, the money they earn, that they will put some away for a rainy day, and when the next hard times or depression comes, they will feel much more independent than if they had spent everything they earned.

A penny saved is two earned.

FARVER-PRESTON WEDDING SATURDAY

The autumnal theme marked one of the prettiest of early fall weddings Saturday evening in the Highland U. P. church which is of interest to many, the principals being Miss Ione Farver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Farver of Laurel boulevard and Walter D. Preston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse H. Preston of North Crawford avenue. While the occasion was quietly celebrated in the presence of a few close friends and relatives of the couple, it was especially impressive with its note of dignity and simplicity.

The vows were plighted at 5 o'clock with Dr. D. L. Ferguson, pastor, reading the single ring service.

For her wedding, the bride was attractive in a costume suit of chestnut brown wool trimmed in lynx with black accessories, and her chic hat of doe skin, matched. Completing her attire was a shoulder bouquet of yellow roses. Miss Evelyn Brandt as maid of honor and only attendant, was attired in a fuschia wool dress with matching hat, and other accompaniments in black. Her shoulder corsage was of pink roses.

Gunar Swanson of New York City and formerly of New Castle, served the groom as best man.

Supplementing the ceremnoy, a wedding dinner for the bridal party and several guests was held at The Castleton. The nuptial theme predominated in all appointments. Immediately afterwards, the couple departed on a trip through the east, and at its conclusion will take up residence in New York City, where the groom is associated in the offices of the Prudential Financial Corporation. She has been employed with the William F. Moody company here as bookkeeper.

Since the news of their engagement was made known, a series of lovely showers and parties were given in honor of the bride. They have received an array of beautiful and serviceable gifts for their new home, further testifying to the esteem in which they are held by their circle of friends.

MISS RAE HAMMOND WEDS AT YOUNGSTOWN

Of interest to many New Castleites is the elaborate wedding which took place in the First Christian church at Youngstown Saturday evening at seven, when Miss Rae Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Hammond of the Ohio city, became the bride of John L. Davies, III, in a candlelight ceremony which was attended by guests numbering over 500. Rev. Eugene C. Beach read the service.

A Vionnet model of bridal velvet, designed with high shirred neckline and leg o' mutton sleeves, and an illusion veal was worn by the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. Her five pretty attendants, Mrs. James R. Shutts as matron of honor, Mr. Davies' sister, Miss Sue Davies, Miss Virginia Williams, Miss Margaret Alcorn and Miss Marian Stillman of New York City, as bridesmaids, were gowned alike in Alix models of salvia blue velvet and diminutive flower hats with matching circular face veils. They carried salvia blue velvet barrel-shaped muffs, holding cascades of Picardy gladioli florets and Roosevelt roses, salmon pink in color. White orchids showered with valley lilies formed the bride's bouquet, and she wore a double strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Peter VanDyke Davies served as his brother's best man, and the bride's brother, Robert M. Hammond, Mrs. Davies' cousin, Douglas Garvin McMillin, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Edward Ennis of Buffalo, N. Y., and James R. Shutts ushered.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Porter Dale, a cousin of Mrs. Hammond's, preceding and during the ceremony.

Over 175 guests were received at the reception afterwards in the Ohio Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Davies are motoring through the South and East on a post-nuptial tour. At its conclusion they will be at home to friends at 323 West Glenaven avenue, in the Ohio city.

The bride, a graduate of South High and Lake Erie college, has been a teacher of physical education at Lincoln school in Youngstown. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Tidball of North Crawford avenue and Mrs. Ella McCreary of Winter avenue, and a cousin of Mrs. James Matthews of Winslow avenue, all of New Castle. They, with others from here, attended the wedding ceremony.

The groom attended the University of Virginia and the University of Alabama and is a member of Delta Chi social fraternity and Alpha Kappa Psi professional fraternity. He is a metallurgist with the Republic Steel corporation.

Out-of-town guests attended from New Castle, Pa.; New York City, Steubenville, Port Huron, Mich.; Conneaut, Oberlin, St. Elmo, Long Island, N. Y.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Cleveland, O.; Prestonsburg, Ky.; Jackson, O., and Sharon.

Preceding the business session, there will be a meeting of the membership committee, with Mrs. Adolph Goldman, chairman in charge. Plans will be furthered for the annual membership campaign to take place during the month of October.

Mrs. Jack Conn, chairman of the program committee, has arranged an interesting program for the evening. A new comer to town, Rabbi Gilbert Elefant, of Tifereth Israel congregation will speak and sing.

Delegates to the National convention to take place in New York City in October will be elected during the course of the evening.

Jolly Merrymakers

For their last outdoor meeting, members of the Jolly Merrymakers club went to Willis Roy camp on the Butler road, Sunday, where they enjoyed a picnic dinner. Numerous games provided the pastime.

On Saturday, October 28, the group will have a Hallowe'en party in the home of Mrs. Loyal Gray, Ellwood City road.

FIFTY-SIXTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY PLANNED

On Thursday, September 28, Mr. and Mrs. Hulbert Robinson, of the Pulaski road, will celebrate their 56th wedding anniversary, at their home.

Of special interest is the fact that Mr. Robinson was born in Pulaski township on January 25, 1861 and has always lived in Lawrence County. He states that he has seen many changes in his life. His grandfather had a farm in Pulaski township, and his father had a farm in Neshannock Twp. There was no bridge across the Shenango river at Nashua then and in order to cross, the horses were forced to swim. Mr. Robinson was just a small boy when he drove horses on the canal from New Castle to Sharon. He was a farmer by occupation until a year ago when he sold his farm and retired.

DOMESTIC BUSINESS

REVIEWING the current steel market, The Iron Age states that "comparatively little of the heavy inflow of tonnage has come from abroad." According to its analysis, domestic users "had been running their inventories on a hand-to-mouth basis," but on the declaration of war immediately acted to protect themselves, while some moved "to speculate by ordering more than their normal requirements." In short, steel buyers obeyed somewhat the same impulse that sent household buyers to the retail markets in a rush for foodstuffs.

What has happened to the steel business has occurred in other basic industries and for precisely the same reasons—low inventories and fear of the immediate effects of war on exports and prices. Happily there is now apparent a saner consideration of the statistical factors with respect to supplies.

Giving impetus to the buying spurt, perhaps, was the fact that a widespread recovery from the recession that began late in 1937 had been under way for months. Most indices indicate that this momevent is continuing, with dependence less on war demand prospects than on improved domestic conditions. In August the electric power index touched a new high since October, 1937, and railroad loadings showed a substantial advance.

NOW COMES SEASON OF BAKED AIR

In most of the territory of the United States, some form of central heating is considered desirable and necessary in winter. Thereby it becomes possible to live in comfort in cold climates, and winter loses much of its terror.

And, yet, because people are careless about ventilation and about preserving the natural humidity of the air, the majority of these homes supply the people with baked air, in which the natural moisture is dried out, rendering the inmates subject to the multiude of ills which they get in winter.

The human body was not meant to live in such artificial atmospheric conditions as are produced in winter in the majority of homes. If these folks do not ventilate their rooms properly, or see that their air has the needed moisture, Old Man Grip will lay them low.

NEW WORLD SOLIDARITY

While grabbing their neighbors' territory, the Nazis are sacrificing foreign trade conquests no less valuable. Germany at present, and probably for a long time to come, has shut herself off from a world trade which she had slowly won back, with much effort, after the last war.

It is inevitable that countries now at peace, with access to those lost markets, should take advantage of their opportunity. This is especially true of the United States with respect to Latin-America. Present world perils are driving all the free American countries closer together, not merely for self-defense but for mutual and profitable exchange of goods. There is developing a "common front" in the New World, economically as well as politically.

This movement is naturally discussed and promoted by the Conference of American Republics at Panama City. It affords a good opportunity to readjust lost markets and create new ones, far from the perils of Europe and Asia, in the prosperous and sheltered regions of our own hemisphere.

Here is a situation, unique in the world, where "ideologies" go hand in hand with mutual interest and profit. What Old World nations are scheming and fighting to achieve, this favored hemisphere already possesses. All that we have to do , in order to assume the future and reap the full benefits, is to strengthen our co-operation.

CANADA'S WAR EFFORT

Canada is attacking its war problem with a vigor and an exhibition of national concord that shows the country united behind the declaration of war which had almost unanimous support in Parliament.

Parliament has passed the initial appropriation of $100,000,000—just a starter, for the last war cost it $2,000,000,000—and the effort this time is likely to be of greater scope.

Trading with the enemy has been prohibited in the most thorough fashion and all German property put under government control.

The chief immediate effort, in addition to providing for the national defense, will be to keep a stream of food, munitions, and other essential war supplies moving across the Atlantic. A ministry of munitions and supply has been established to direct this work.

Continental Canada itself may be immune at this time from direct naval or air attack. But there are outlying possessions of both Britain and France which might become objectives of submarine enterprises and Canada will undertake their defense. The Dominion will also have to be on its guard against conspiracy by possible Nazi sympathizers, intended to damage Canadian munitions centers or means of communications.

It is announced that the matter of an expeditionary force is being considered. Before conscription was introduced in 1917, Canada sent volunteer expeditionary forces which made an admirable record for gallantry and effectiveness in fighting in Flanders and elsewhere on the Western Front.

It had already decided there would be no conscription this time. There is widespread opposition to compulsory participation of combatant forces overseas and the leaders of both parties have agreed that its imposition at this time would impair national unity. It made trouble in the World War, causing riots in Quebec which troops had to be called out to suppress.

But the Dominion is expected to contribute on a volunteer [illegible] air forces which will make a substantial addition to the British-French strength in this arm on the Western Front.

The Dominion seems to fear as expressions of leaders of both parties indicate that a power is arising in the Old World that threatens democracy and security in the New, if not checked. Therefore it feels, when the mother country is attacked, a compulsion to aid going beyond the common ties of association in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

And yet, the fellows who hold the big jobs never have time to improve their minds.

Another thing the world needs is a medal for heroic endurance to reward the taxpayer.

Every successful man is educated. Bees have no book learning, but you never saw one that wasn't an expert.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SOLVING CHILD'S ARITHMETIC TROUBLES

Ever so many parents write me about the child who, along about the fourth or fifth grade, has dire trouble with arithmetic. In the light of my personal check on many such cases, I can safely tell these parents that it is almost certain that the child in question has not yet learned accurately by heart the 100 simple addition facts and the 100 simple subtraction facts, such as seven and six are 13; nine from 14 leaves five.

The parent is advised to make cards of these number facts to help the child learn them. The parent should have the child say over and over to himself the whole combination, including the sum or difference, until he knows all these facts by heart. But he should attack only three or four of these number facts at a sitting. I also would advise the parent to have the child stick to the addition facts until the whole hundred of them are mastered, and not have him study the addition and subtraction facts together; this to avoid confusion.

Usually the child troubled by arithmetic finds his trouble growing worse because he is put under speed tests, being shown only the two numbers to be added, for example, eight and nine, without the sum, 17. He is forced to make an answer quickly, practicing in mistakes. But if you help the child calmly learn the whole combination by heart, he will be able to say it quickly when put under the watch at school. Merely pray that he will be saved from this speed ordeal there. Say nothing to the teacher or to the child about the way she does. She probably has, terrible to relate, been trained to indulge in this wasteful, horrible, tortuous practice.

Prevent Counting Habit

Curiously enough, some "experts" who have been training teachers argue that speed tests in number work are desirable in order to correct the child of the pernicious counting habit (preventing him from saying to himself as he sees seven and five, for example, "eight, nine, 10, 11, 12"). One such expert replied to me, when I asked him how we might correct the counting habit, "Make 'em go like the devil." But hurrying the child only makes him gamble on the answer and feel miserable when he doesn't do so quickly. Speed pressure doesn't solve his problem; it only makes this problem worse.

From coast to coast young children are taught to count while they learn to add and subtract. Then, after a few years of practice at counting as they add or subtract, these children are told, "It is not nice to count; this bad habit must be cured. Therefore, we must give you this bitter medicine. Come on and take it."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Do you think a child should be paid for helping with the regular jobs around the home?

A. As a rule, no.

Q. How may we best motivate a poor reader to practice reading from very easy material

A. By inducing him to read to a child under six to entertain him.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

MUTUAL RELIEF

There are some people who think that the citizens of Vermont don't belong—they don't vote for the New Deal; they don't agree to any of the Administration's policies. They seem to be very much in a class by themselves. However, Vermonters have a habit of taking care of themselves. There are not many people in Vermont on Relief. It still seems to be the abode of ancient virtues which appear to be wearing thin elsewhere.

Last winter a Vermonter drove to a neighbor's and asked: "How about a little wood? I've been sick and I'm down."

The neighbor waved his hand toward the woodpile. "Help yourself. Fill your sleigh any time."

This summer the borrower of the wood, carrying his pitchfork, ambled down the road. "Seen you hayin'," he said, "and I thought I'd work out that wood." At the end of the fourth day he figured accounts were even and shook hands on it.

"All square now," he said, "but I'll do ye an ax helve next winter—for interest."

There ought to be a great many more Vermonters scattered about these United States.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:53. Sun rises tomorrow 5:51.

The fellow who is in a position to declare he don't care what happens often has the best of it. It is those who do care what happens who bear the burden.

Say, man, don't forget the fall housecleaning has to be done if it is not already under way. Get your temper under control.

A beauty expert declares that even cleverly applied makeup requires a clean surface or it fails to produce what is wanted. A clean face often looks much better than one that is plastered with dope.

A man may dress to look young but he gives himself away by losing interest in a lady when he finds out she's a liar.

An open door will let in flies and a lot of other things one would like to swat.

A boy at Weigletown calls his pig Ink because he is always running out of the pen.

GOLF

The game originated in Scotland and the weather over there is very inclement to say the best. Experienced golfers never started out for a round without a full bottle of that pure Scotch. They took a small medicinal nip at each tee, and soon found that one bottle contained exactly 18 of the medicinal nips. And that is why every course has 18 holes.

Which reminds me of that old one about the golf widow. She had buried seven husbands and had her heart set on completing the full 18 holes.

Office Grouch: "It's getting so that being a queen of this or that community is about as much distinction for a girl as wearing a skirt.

It's a good thing to keep politics out of war. Politics make a lot of trouble even when used politically.

When only half the people who apply for an auto driver's test get the license to drive, it's a pretty good sign that those who are giving the tests are doing their stuff right.

A bird on the West Side reported to the police that his lawn mower had been stolen. The police suspect that he hid it.

"It's a pretty safe guess that the young man who is good to his sister would make a good husband" remarked Office Philosopher.

WANTED TO BE FAIR

Story heard on municipal golf course:

They sliced their drives into the rough and went in search of the balls. They searched for a long time without any success, a kindly old lady watching them with sympathetic interest.

Finally, after the search had lasted half an hour, the dear old lady spoke to them:

"I don't want to bother you, gentlemen," she said quietly, "but would it be cheating if I told you where they are?"

A local man who has tried it both ways says it is costly to have your car overhauled whether by a mechanic or traffic cop.

REALLY NEW DEAL

Why doesn't someone start a new deal for bridegrooms by giving them "showers." Did you ever hear of one? If not, just read this one from the Eskridge, Kan., Independent:

"In honor of the approaching marriage last Saturday evening of Bill Turnbull, a surprise shower was given in his home as he came for his dinner at noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Peoples, where he had been boarding for several months. A dozen or more friends gave him several wrapped packages to be opened before he could partake of the meal prepared in his honor. Bill thought for a bridegroom to have a shower was something out of the ordinary, and he was the first ever to enjoy such an occasion."

Dogs are only tied up after some of them try to eat up a few people. It's too late then for those bitten but the heads of the dogs have to be sent somewhere to find out if they were mad.

A local waitress was asked by her boy friend to "name the day." She said she couldn't do that, as she worked at night.

Having your heating plant made in good order now may save you a lot of trouble later when you want the heat.

FARE ENOUGH

She was riding on the train with her son, and when the conductor came by she said. "A fare for me and a half fare for the boy."

The conductor looked at the boy. "Lady, that boy's got long pants on," he said.

"Very well" said the lady. "In that case a full fare for the boy and a half fare for me."

In the city prison at Columbus, O., they have a room in which there are magazines, flowers and a telephone. The host and hostesses, however, are policemen.

We heard a noted speaker say in a speech not long ago that it would be very easy to fill the churches every Sunday if they just had good singing and more of it, and good speakers and less of it.

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

A famous philosopher classified humans by what they laugh at and I can almost correctly classify them by their manner of laughing. If I hear behind me a silly, coughy laugh continued in the inhalations as well as exhalations, I will turn around and see a sub-deb of high school age. But let me hear a shrill, calliopic shriek and I can safely bet ten to one that the perpetrator is a Stella Dallas or Sadie Thompson.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel Please outline the proper form of invitation to a baby's christening.—Dot.

Answer: Ordinarily, only relatives and close friends are invited to a chistening, in which case invitations either by note or by telephone are sufficient. However, when the ceremony is formal, engraved invitations should be worded as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith
request the pleasure of your company
at the christening of their daughter
on Sunday, the first of October
(address)

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader inclosing a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope.

Tomorrow—Boisterous Children.

There are a lot of people who say little but remember long.

A local man was telling his barber that he thought he would stay at home this winter, as New Castle was just as good a place to be as any place he had ever been. "I feel somewhat the same way," said the barber. "To tell you the truth, I am a little low on cash, too."

EXAGGERATION

"Gee, mother you ought to see that car that just went by" said the boy. "It's as big as a house."

"Johnny," reproved mother. "How oten have I told you not to exaggerate that way? I've told you forty million times about that habit of yours."

Many a man who thinks he is only a pebble in some girl's life should try being a little brother, advises Flossie Fernfrill who ought to know.

The word "liar" is being freely used in Europe just now. That word is a fighting word. The word "fool" is a real word to make a fight. Of course, there is also a sort of a group of words used so often, but when analyzed they don't mean anything, but they cause fights.

At the beginning of the World War, Americans were not anti-German. There has been a big change in American sentiment since the starting of the last war. They are anti now all right.

NATIONAL TRENDS

Joe tells about the eight men who were wrecked on an island and rescued a year later.

The two Irishmen had fought twice a day while on the island.

The two Scots had founded a Caledonian Society.

The two Englishmen had not spoken to each other. No one had introduced them.

The two Americans had opened a real estate agency, laid out a town-site, organized a Kiwanis club, a chamber of commerce and had set up a small still in the cellar.

Knee action was discovered by the trapeze performer.

No sooner does a man learn to paddle his own canoe than he has a hankering for a motorboat.

NOT SO MUCH

Nature of itself doesn't mean to be so very generous we heard at a speech the other day. Which reminds us of the story about the parson who came along and found a parishioner working in a garden.

"Mighty fine place you have there, Mr. Jones" said the parson. "You certainly should thank the Almighty for it."

"Guess you're right, parson" said Jones, somewhat dubiously. "But just the same you should have seen this field when the Almighty had it all to itself."

It may be that aristocrats are born that way. No ordinary person can eat breakfast in bed without making a mess of things.

There's always something. If your stock goes back up to $100 a share, they are only 59-cent dollars this time.

Senator Borah Stealing Show
Leads Battle For Neutrality
Star Performer In Extra Session

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Senator Borah is the star performer at this extra session of congress. Even before the session's opening the indications had begun to be that he'd lose his fight to maintain unqualified American neutrality in the present world situation. President Roosevelt, demanding modification of the Nye neutrality law, hadn't exactly out-argued him, but as the time neared for the lawmakers to convene it had grown pretty apparent that public sentiment favored the presidential side of the case regardless of reasoning, pro or con.

All the same, the Idaho statesman has put up a formidable scrap. He undoubtedly has more influence with his fellow legislators than any other single individual on Capitol Hill, but not enough to offset the odds against him. He has enough, though, to give the administration an anxious spell of it. He's like a warrior who goes down to defeat after having piled up a tremendous stack of badly-damaged opponets. Losing, under such circumstances, isn't a bit discreditable.

Borah Versus Roosevelt

Senator Borah, as I've said, is the extra session's star performer. I mean to say, he's its star congressional performer. He out-stars any and all others in the ultra-isolationist group and he out-stars any particular figure in the opposition group—on the Hill. Star for star, he doesn't necessarily out-star the president, down in the White House. F. D.'s performance has been excellent. Essentially, it's a contest between him and the Idaho senator.

However, their respective followings have to be taken into consideration.

At the last regular session congress certainly was split about 50-50 on the neutrality issue, but even then I surmise that the home folk were strongly anti-Hitler. Today, assuredly, they are much more so. Meanwhile, the senators and representatives have visited their various home states and districts, sopping up the popular reaction. The natural conclusion is that the 50-50 balance has been upset—that the legislators are better disposed than they were toward doing any little thing they can (short of actual war participation) in the direction of sticking it into Adolf.

President Roosevelt has played this just right, from the standpoint of neutrality modification—to the effect that he's for neutrality but can't ask anybody not to have his proper sympathies—he knows what they are.

Senator Borah makes an equally good talker, but it's clear that he's in the minority class. I know plenty of Americans who at least were not outright anti-German in 1914, but who are emphatically so now. Not that they want to get into the war, but they want to be as non-belligerently helpful to the democracies as they can.

That Neutrality Law

Senator Gerald P. Nye invented our present neutrality law.

Theoretically, he should be its principal defender. He does defend it competently, but he doesn't defend it with the weight of Senator Borah's gunfire.

If that law had been a "Borah law" it would have been a darned sight more substantial. Nye evolved it out of an investigation of the last war's profiteering. It was a dandy investigation. Nye is one of the best congressional investigators congress ever had. But, somehow, he isn't the ideal sponsor of capitally important new laws. I know why, too; he rates as a "young senator"—immature.

Next to Borah, Senator Hiram Johnson of California was the bird to have fathered that law. Then I'd say, Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, a Democrat. Senator Charles G. Norris would have been grand, but he's a New Dealer.

If there hadn't been an American neutrality law it would have been regarded as a mere oversight—as of no international consequence either way.

However, as soon as the act was passed it immediately became apparent that it was pro-German and anti-Anglo-French. If it's repealed, its repeal is sure to be interpreted as pro-democratic and anti-totalitarian—anti-Hitler.

We'll be "damned if we do and damned if we don't," as the saying is.

PLAINT OF A CURIOUS MAN

"Not enough hours in a day," explained he:
"Not enough weeks in a month or a year:
Never I'll see all I'm anxious to see.
Never I'll hear all I'm eager to hear.

"Why must the body so speedily tire?
Why must the flesh be so foolish and weak?
Why must we mortals so slowly acquire
The few grains of wisdom we're prompted to seek?

"Why must we stop when the chase is so sweet?
Why must we rest when there's so much to learn?
Surely if man would life's lesson complete
Back to this earth must his spirit return."

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright, 1939, by The Baltimore Sun

The Same Men

WASHINGTON, September 25.

AS the battle over the embargo begins certain basic facts are so clear—or at least should be—that contention concerning them seems more or less ruled out. However, through the flood of words soon to descend upon us, they need to be kept in mind, and it seems worth while to restate them simply.

ONE is that the President and those who support him in the effort to lift the embargo are as convinced that that is the way to keep us out of war as Senator Borah and his isolationist colleagues are certain that it will put us in. Another is that if the Roosevelt-Hull program prevails it will aid the British and French; if it fails it will be advantageous to Germany. It ought to be possible to concede these two indisputable facts without impugning Mr. Roosevelt's sincerity about the first or regarding Mr. Borah and his friends as pro-Hitler because of the second. To do either is to commit a great injustice. The sincerity of the leaders on both sides is real.

THERE are illogicalities and weaknesses in the positions of both which will become apparent in the debate, but the above statements will remain true and no amount of argument should be allowed to blur them. In the Senate, where the real struggle will take place, it seems clear that the President will be supported by a bipartisan majority. It is also clear that sentiment in the country—now—is strongly behind his proposals. The people as a whole want to aid Britain and France—in every way "short of war." However, it is equally clear that the oratorical advantage in the Senate will be on the other side. The Administration has no one who in eloquence or in argument equals Borah, Johnson, Vandenberg, Clarke or La Follette. They are not only the most forceful speakers but the most determined and resourceful of the Senators.

AS the situation is considered, it is impossible not to recall the similarity to the League of Nations battle in the Senate twenty years ago when Woodrow Wilson was President. Unquestionably, this is the most vital question of foreign policy that has arisen in this country since that day. Then, as now, the President had with him a majority of the country and a majority of the Senate. Then, as now, he was opposed by a band of able, determined, resourceful men. That under those circumstances Mr. Wilson was defeated, most persons believe, was due to the utter inflexibility with which he insisted upon having the thing he wanted exactly as he wanted it, and rejected the possible compromises his friends felt desirable.

IT is not likely that history will repeat itself in that way. Nevertheless, it is interesting to note that Senators Borah and Johnson—two of the leaders of the Senate opposition today in this matter upon which so much depends—were leaders in the fight twenty years ago, which prevented the United States from entering the League of Nations. The outcome of that fight was the wreckage of the only great constructive proposal for abolishing war that existed in the world. The outcome of that fight was to render futile what, with our weight behind it, might have become an effective instrument for the permanent preservation of peace.

IN the opinion of many, had Mr. Wilson won instead of lost his fight there would not today be raging the sort of conflagration which is devouring Europe and menacing us. It seems incredible that after twenty years the same men could again thwart the will of the American people and affect the destinies not only of this nation but the world. Yet, here they are—able, aged, convinced that they are right and that the great weight of nonpartisan and informed opinion, which is on the other side, is wrong.

IT seems incredible that these men, a small minority in the Senate and representing a minority in the country, again can defeat an American President supported by popular sentiment, and divert this nation from the course which the majority agrees is in the interests of peace and for the national good. Yet, that's what they aim to do. The grotesqueness of the situation is not lessened by the fact that their motives are not selfish and their patriotism beyond question.

Chairman Dies Says Communists To Be Weeded Out

Says He Has Authoritative Information Of Federal And Labor Plans

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—Chairman Martin Dies, of the special house committee investigating un-American activities, today announced that he had authoritative information that the federal government and organized labor plan a concerted "house-cleaning" of Communist party members in their ranks.

The chairman made the assertion as his committee voted to turn all its evidence to the state and justice departments to determine if German-American Bund and Communist party members can be prosecuted under the federal registration and espionage acts. Dies said:

"The chair has been advised that organized labor is asking all known Communists to either get out or to renounce Communism.

"The chair has also been reliably informed that the government is taking similar steps. There is going to be a house-cleaning by both the government and labor."

Formal Action

The committee's decision to formally transmit its testimony and evidence on the Bund and Communist party to the government was made on a motion of Rep Thomas (R) New Jersey. He said:

"Based on testimony presented to this committee to date, there can be no doubt that the officers and members of the Communist party, U. S. A., and the German-American Bund, are violating both the registration and the espionage acts of this nation. The penalty of such violation in the case of the foreign agents act is a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for a term of not more than two years, and in the case of the espionage act, the penalty is a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment of not more than five years.

"In view of the clear cut testimony showing the close tieup between the Communist party and the German-American Bund and their foreign headquarters, and in view of the national emergency which exists, I think it is our solemn duty as a committee of the house, to immediately acquaint both the state and justice departments with all relating testimony."

Relief Rolls Show Decline In Pennsylvania

Private Industry Is Absorbing Great Many Of WPA Workers, Industrial Boom Started

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25.—Pennsylvania's general relief rolls, forced down the past five weeks under the impetus of an industrial boom that has returned thousands to work, continued their decline during the week ending September 16, despite a lagging of W.P.A. assignments, the department of public assistance revealed today.

Public Assistance Secretary Howard L. Russell disclosed that because of the adverse effect of W.P.A. activity, the week's net decrease was small, totaling only 684 persons.

Employment gains in private industry, Russell revealed, enabled 9,786 persons to leave the relief rolls, while only 5743 persons were added after losses in private employment.

The direct net effect in private employment, it was pointed out, considered alone, was to reduce the state's relief burden by more than 4,000 persons.

Russell declared that W.P.A. layoffs in accordance with the 18-months continuous employment rule were responsible for most of the usually large case openings, of which there was 12,070 involving 42,357 persons.

The balance between case openings and closings associated with W.P.A., Russell said, was adverse by a margin of 910 cases (4,026 persons).

On September 16, Russell reported, general assistance rolls throughout the state numbered 826,050 persons, while net expenditures for the week totaled $2,016,075, an increase of $19,837 over the previous week. The W.P.A. lag was blamed for the temporary upswing in the state-financed relief burden.

CONSTIPATED! Gas Crowds Heart.

"For years I had occasional constipation, headaches and pains in the back. Awful gas bloating seemed to crowd my heart. Adlerika always helped right away. Now I eat sausage, bananas, pie, anything I want and never felt better."—Mrs. Mabel Schott. Two things happen when you are constipated. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, often bringing on sour stomach, indigestion, and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Adlerika gives double relief with DOUBLE ACTION. BALANCED Adlerika containing three laxatives and five carminatives relieves STOMACH GAS almost at once. It often clears bowels in less than two hours. No griping, no after effects, just quick results.

Sounds Warning On South American Trade

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—As government launches a program to aid American business to expand trade with South America, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States sounded a warning against too great expectations in that direction.

The foreign commerce committee of the chamber cautioned American business and industry that the European war will cause certain dislocations in America's foreign trade, particularly with regard to Latin America.

Barriers Listed

Recognizing the shutting off of German export and import trade, which has shown a marked increase in the last five years, the committee listed these barriers to expansion of the United States trade with its southern neighbors:

1. Financial situations which have built up large amounts of "blocked" funds, particularly in inflexible German marks, which may increase the difficulties of some countries in meeting payments for their imports.

2. Increased war risk insurance on ocean shipping, imposing additional costs.

3. Establishment of governmental control of financing and credit extension in Latin-America further complicating money exchange.

The Department of Commerce drew up charts for the guidance of American manufacturers showing the extent of German manufactured exports to South American countries, but the chamber voiced this caution:

"It is to be kept in mind that the financial situations in some of the South American countries has in the past resulted in the building up of great quantities of blocked funds. Also, the shutting off of South American exports to certain European states may increase the difficulties of some countries in meeting payments for their imports and returns on direct investments."

European Armies May Seek Horses And Mules From American Farms

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—If the European war becomes a war of movement, America's farms and ranches may be scoured again for war horses and pack-mules.

But army buyers from abroad will find only half as many horses to choose from as they found in 1915-1918 and most of these are peace-time work animals.

The American Humane Society hopes to shut off even that supply. It has asked President Roosevelt "in the name of humanity" to include animals in the list of supplies that may not be supplied to belligerents.

Buyers for European armies swarmed into American horse and mule markets and into our farming and ranching districts during the World War. They paid high prices for horses and mules to replace those which had been shot, gassed or worn out on the battlefield and on shell-torn roads.

Quickening Demand

Already there are signs of a quickening export demand. A shipment of 1,000 mules, destined for service in Turkey's expanding army, recently left New Orleans. Another shipment for Turkey is scheduled for next month from a Texas point and there are reports of still more buying in the Southwest. Buyers for nearly all European powers have been drawing heavily on Ireland's horse supply, and soon may turn to American sources.

If the Europeans should dig in for stabilized fighting, as they did in trenches on the Western front after the early phases of the World War, animal casualties would be comparatively light.

But if the conflict develops into a war movement American cavalrymen believe the mounted arm would play an important, perhaps decisive role and eventually would need heavy replacements.

European horse buyers coming to the United States today would find only 10,800,000 horses and 4,381,000 mules on farms and ranches, as against 21,431,000 horses in 1915 and 4,239,000 mules in 1918.

Warning For Truck Drivers

State Motor Police To Enforce Law On Distance Between Trucks

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25—The state motor police today were ordered to tighten up on trucks following each other closely on the open highway.

As a means of cutting down accidents, Colonel Lynn G. Adams, commissioner, pointed to a provision in the motor code for a $10 fine or five days' imprisonment for truck drivers following another truck less than 500 feet away.

He added, however, that does not prevent one truck from overtaking and passing another. It does not apply in business or residential districts either, he said. It excludes military convoys.

The department of revenue reported 2,658 vehicles were forced off the roadways in 1938 and were involved in motor accidents. Thirty-four resulted in fatalities.

Child Ends Fourth Year Of Her Sleep

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 25—Six-year-old Maxine Yarrington, the "sleeping beauty" of St. Francis hospital, has ended her fourth year in the end bed in the long row in the children's ward.

In four years, Maxine never has seen one of the scores of little children who have entered the ward ill and feverish, and left it healthy and happy.

Maxine is asleep, a victim of encephalitis lethargica (sleeping sickness).

Only 2 years old when stricken, the child, although she tosses fitfully sometimes, never has awakened since her frantic parents brought her to the hospital from their home at nearby Fairview on September 24, 1935.

After four years, her condition is practically unchanged.

Physicians long ago gave up hope for her recovery.

650 OHIO COLLEGE STUDENTS PLAN FLYING LESSONS

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O.—About 650 Ohio college students will learn to fly this fall and winter at the expense of the federal government.

Under provisions of the Civilian Pilot Training Act passed by the last congress, the government bears the entire cost of flight instruction. The cost per student was expected to approximate between $270 and $290.

The flying course will be divided into two parts. The first is a ground school course of 72 hours which will be given on the campus of the participating university. The second is a minimum of 35 hours and up to a maximum of 50 hours of flight instruction.

Each student selected for training will be required to pay the university a laboratory fee. This sum covers the cost of a medical examination and of required insurance.

A student must be between 18 and 25, in good health, to be eligible for ground and flight instruction.

CAMELS—LONG-BURNING COSTLIER TOBACCOS

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

So far as history is enlightening the first great herb doctor was Dioscorides, a surgeon in the armies of Nero. His system gave him enduring fame and dominated medicine throughout the world until the seventeenth century.

Nobody knows much about who the Cherokee Indians were or what they were doing in Nero's day. It is a safe assumption that they weren't chubby with the Romans. But here today they bring on down from the mist of the centuries a herbal system not unlike that of Dioscorides. Up in the Bronx their Chief Thundercloud is arrested for maintaining a herb "pitch".

Many Indian tribes have an elaborate herb lore. Where did they get it? In the big town our skyscrapers, our automobiles, all our swift conformity and change give us what may be a false sense of modernity, of severence with the past. In some dark, cold water walk-up in the shadow of these same skyscrapers of blatant modernity you can find an Obi man, and if you will, you may saturate yourself with voodoo magic and conjure the roar of street traffic into the beat of jungle drums.

If you think your girl has been two-timing you, you may, if the week's pay-check will stand the strain, make a deal with the Obi man for a magic feather. In the jungle you would participate in the ritual by which the feathers were plucked from a live blackbird. They would be tossed into a stream under a benificent aspect of the jungle moon. The one specially enchanted feather would float upstream. That would be your charm.

The Harlem Obi man works with a trough in the kitchen sink, rather than a savannah-hung tide river and a gibbous moon, but the enchantment is the same. You pay out a greenback instead of a goat or an iguana, get your magic feather and lightly brush your girl on the left shoulder with it. She never gives you the run-around again—if you believe the Obi man.

Chief Thundercloud and the Obi man setting up a "pitch" in New York are reminders that we are, indeed, "the sum of all our yesterdays". The latest "white book" of Europe wouldn't tell half so much about the bedeviled continent and the cause of its 32nd war as would a complete dossier on its age-old heritage of exacerbated hatreds, old feudal and dynastic rivalries, infinitely varied cultures and conditioning, its legacy of tarnished glories, moonshine, poetry, tattered romance, warring philosophies and forever shattered and forever renewed faiths, heresies and conformities.

Cervantes debunked it elegantly in "Don Quixote", but it is forever the same. When Voltaire tossed off his aphorism about "the more change, the more of the same thing", he might have added that it is easy to bamboozle homo sapiens and the devil's own job to debamboozle him.

No mere league of nations could get a troupe of that kind of genii back into the vase. Nor could they be herded into any word corral like "democracy" or "absolutism". John Masefield can list poetically the spices and the pig-iron of its ancient and continuing commerce, but even if the immortal Homer were Europe's super-cargo today, he could make no neat capitulation of this hoary human heritage, nor could he set one item off sharply against another. They flux and fuse and ferment and sometimes boil over.

Should we jettison the past? Much of it, no doubt. But suppose that policeman who arrested Thundercloud for herb-doctoring had been troubled with hay fever? If he had been to an up-and-coming doctor he would have been treated with ephederin, brought over from China by our doctors about 15 years ago. It has been of great value in the treatment of hay fever and asthma, and is a standard prescription for these ailments.

If the policeman didn't sneeze when he was making the arrest, he should thank the ancestors of Thundercloud who, with the Chinese of thousands of years ago, were evolving the trial and error wisdom by which many survived until our somewhat dubious age of reason.

Truth still lies at the bottom of the well and there is no use to quit dredging for it just because we are apt to haul up a dead cat or an old rubber boot instead.

Another Puzzling Move Is Made By Josef Stalin

By I. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service Foreign Editor

Josef Stalin made another puzzling move that set the world to guessing today. He closed the Neva river to all foreign shipping and thereby cut off Finland's Lake Lagoda from the Baltic.

Completely puzzled by this Russian step and fearful of their own independence, the Finns immediately began fortifying their narrow frontier north of the Neva.

It was inevitable that the measure should arouse Finnish concern. Mysterious though it may have been, Stalin usually has a pretty good, Bolshevistic reason for everything he does and it was difficult to read into closing of the Neva any desire on his part to protect the sovereignty and independence of the Baltic states.

Yet at the same time the foreign minister of Estonia was wined and dined in Moscow and apparently was given assurances that his country was completely safe from aggression and invasion.

Had Stalin then designs against Finland alone, or does this strange new chapter in Europe's war indicate once again that the Russians are not too pleased over the prospect of further Nazi expansion eastward in Europe?

Warning To Germany

Without too great a stretch of the imagination, the Neva river mystery could be interpreted as a warning to Germany. If by any chance Adolf Hitler contemplated at some time in the future a move against Germany's Courland Province, which is now Latvia, and possibly further east into the gulf of Finland and against Finland itself, he now knows that Russia is apparently determined to control those waterways and all that goes with them.

Finland for centuries was the cockpit of northern Europe, the scene of incessant strife between Sweden and Russia in ancient days. The Finns suffered terribly in each successive war between the Scandinavian Viking and the Russian imperialist but managed somehow to retain a semblance of independence.

Even in 1809, when the Swedes were defeated and handed over to Russia Finland and the Aaland Islands, Finland did not enter the Russian empire as a conquered province. Instead it obtained the status of a grand duchy and so remained until Czar Nicholas [illegible] upon a new campaign of Russifications which persisted until the World war and reduced Finnish independence to its lowest ebb in history.

Then after the war and the Russian revolution, the Finns broke away entirely, inspired more by the martial music of Sibelius than any other single factor, and built a great republic on its ancient blood-drenched battlefields.

HUGE SLAB OF COPPER ONCE SERVED AS COIN

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 25.—A Swedish coin weighing 32 pounds and having an intrinsic value of about [illegible] was exhibited by the Buffalo Museum of Science in connection with National Numismatic week.

The coin, minted of copper in 1659, is a rectangular slab which had an eight-thaler denomination at the time it was issued. Museum officials said the shape permitted portions to be cut off to make change.

The slab is part of the museum's permanent Knox "evolution of money" collection. Most recent installation, before the slab of Sweden, were a coin of Croesus, the first gold coin, and "Hitler's Harmonica," inspired by the Nazi government's desire to use harmonicas in payment for American merchandise.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

PERSONAL PHYSICIAN TO THE DIONNE QUINTUPLETS FOUR CAUSES OF OBESITY IN CHILDREN

The obese child has long been a serious problem both to parents and to doctors. And in this day of slim figures it is an even more vexing problem to mothers who are anxious to have their girls looking just so.

I know mothers who refuse to admit that their girls are fat. They often dismiss obesity in a child with: "Oh she's just plump. I was that way too when I was her age."

This brings up the old question—just where does obesity begin? Or at what point does plumpness end? Well, we have set up a sort of standard for answers to this question—a standard that should give parents the facts. The usual decision is that when a child weighs twenty percent more than other children of her age and height, she is considered a case of obesity—please excuse my use of the feminine in this case, but I do it because parents as a rule don't worry so much about overweight in boys.

Obesity is not accompanied by any other symptoms. In fact, obese children are often exceptionally healthy and happy—to an extent that parents overlook the condition, especially, as I say when the child is a boy. Yet, parents should be brought to realize that overweight may cause real harm to a child.

There are four definite causes of obesity, but it is often difficult, if not impossible, to fit any one child into any one category. There is one small group of children who are overly fat because of some glandular disorder. Some are fat through heredity—one or both parents are fat, but here again it is likely an inherited glandular condition that is to blame. The other two common causes of overweight in children, just as in most cases of overweight in adults, are lack of exercise and overeating.

All four causes often contribute to overweight in some children. For instance I imagine it isn't very often that a child's weight goes wild purely because of glands. When it does, of course, you have a potential fat lady, or fat man for the circus. Usually it is a case of a child with a gland abnormality which is aggravated by bad eating habits and lack of exercise.

We had a case of glandular obesity brought forcibly to our attention at the Dionne nursery, not so long ago. A child was born a few miles away about the time of the birth of the Quintuplets. When he was a couple of months old he weighed far more than our five little girls, and when he was about four he weighed 150 pounds.

Someone convinced the parents that the child would be a good attraction for tourists and so he was placed on exhibition at his home. But the tourists were not attracted to the scene. Then someone got the idea of bringing him to a spot near our nursery so the visitors could see the Quints and then go over and see him.

Naturally this was a bad thing for us, for it gave the flavor of a sideshow to the whole business. You see, we do not charge admission to see the Quints. We try to keep the whole thing very dignified and this showing of a fat boy nearby was serious. However, we were able to convince the father to stop showing his child. Six months later the child died of pneumonia.

Mrs. Paul Allen Injured In Crash

Local People Escape Serious Injury When Train Hits Automobile

Five local young women escaped serious injury when the automobile in which they had been riding was struck by a train at a crossing in Polk. Mrs. Paul Allen, a passenger in the machine, was the most seriously hurt.

Mrs. Allen suffered a fractured leg and minor cuts and bruises. Following the accident, Mrs. Allen was returned to New Castle, where she was taken to the Jameson Memorial hospital. Others who had been in the car who were not injured included: Miss Neurissa Thompson, of 407 Eighth street, driver of the vehicle; Margaret Bishop, 639 Forest street; Mrs. Elizabeth Stockman, Pearson street, and Virginia Mariana, Long avenue.

According to reports the accident occurred Saturday while the party was enroute to work in Franklin, Pa. Their machine became stalled on the railroad tracks and Miss Thompson was unable to move it.

The five women got out of the car and tried to push it off the tracks. Seeing that this would be impossible, they stood back from the car as the train approached. When the train hit the machine it overturned it and struck Mrs. Allen. The impact was so great that a steel signal post was broken off and the automobile completely wrecked.

Food Sales Here Return $334,464 In Hidden Taxes

Families in New Castle pay an estimated $334,464 in hidden taxes annually through their purchases of food, a National Consumers Tax Commission survey showed today.

"Nearly eight per cent of the total food bill represents shifted taxes buried in the price of every purchase," the report stated. "These unseen levies, for example, take 11 per cent of butter costs, 6½ per cent of bread costs, 10½ per cent of sliced bacon and 14½ per cent of the cost of coffee."

The report was made public through Mrs. Herman H. Mattmann, state director, and Mrs. James B. Scott, national committee member, both of Philadelphia, who lead NCTC study groups in about 334 communities in the educational crusade against "unnecessary consumer-penalizing taxes." The report added:

"Chief offenders, and those that fall most heavily on lower income families, are hidden taxes. These are levied originally against the producer, manufacturer, shipper and distributor. Unable to absorb the load, each must pass on a share of its taxes and the consumer ultimately pays them, usually without knowing it."

The commission, in whose nonpartisan crusade groups in approximately 5,200 communities have launched tax study programs, said the hidden tax figure does not include the many other hidden and direct taxes families here have to pay.

The food tax estimate was computed from NCTC averages based on last available U. S. Bureau of the Census figures which placed 1935 food sales in New Castle at $4,288,000. Government estimates of total sales in the country last year approximate the total in the 1935 study, the NCTC said.

PEKING, China—Private Japanese donations to the army and navy since the outbreak of hostilities in China in July, 1937, have reached the staggering figure of more than 100,000,000 yen, it was revealed by official spokesmen.

This sum, approximately $30,000,000 U. S. currency, was divided 70,000,000 yen to the army and 30,000,000 to the navy.

Under the Japanese system it is possible for individual subjects to give money to the fighting arms for specific purposes. DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Diphtheria, like smallpox, can be definitely prevented.

There is no reason why a child should ever have diphtheria.

Antitoxin, the curative, came first; toxoid, the preventive, followed.

Before antitoxin, 45 per cent of all diphtheria cases were fatal.

By 1906 the death rate had fallen to 13 per cent.

Now, thanks to immunization, the death rate is 1.8.

Every baby between the ages of 6 and 9 months, needs toxoid.

This preventive is harmless, given painlessly—and protects.

Diphtheria begins with a sore throat, usually with fever.

School offers additional danger from this dread disease.

Diphtheria, if diagnosed early enough, can be cured.

Simple immunization, however, will prevent it.

NEUTRALITY MEASURE BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE

Bitter Battle To Start In Congress

Administration Proposal Would Open War Markets Of Europe To United States

SENATOR BORAH LAUNCHES DRIVE

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A neutrality bill opening the golden war markets of Europe to American industry, was submitted to the special session of congress by the administration today and touched off one of the bitterest legislative struggles of this era.

The legislation started its rough trip through congress when the senate foreign relations committee convened to consider it. Formal committee approval, throwing the fight into open debate on the senate floor, was not expected until later this week.

As approved by 15 of the 16 committee Democrats, the bill would repeal the present neutrality law ban on sale of American arms to foreign belligerents. It would substitute a strict cash-and-carry act permitting such sales, but providing that title to the purchase must change hands on United States soil and the goods must be hauled away in foreign boats.

President Roosevelt and his supporters contend that because this law would sweep the seas clean of American ships and American-titled commodities bound for belligerent ports it would keep this country out of Old World conflict.

Borah Opens Drive

The bi-partisan group of isolationists led by Senator Borah (R) Idaho, opposing all proposals to lift the neutrality act arms embargo, will open a radio speaking campaign against arms embargo repeal this week. The World War flying ace, Eddie Rickenbacker, will open the group's campaign with an address tomorrow night.

The opposition faction contends decision of this country to sell arms and munitions to nations at war will be viewed by Germany as favoring France and Great Britain with their great naval power and therefore unneutral. Its leaders demand retention of the arms embargo. They say any other course means inevitable American involvement in the European war.

The administration's cash-and-carry bill, which does not contain a word about cash payment but simply specifies that title to U. S. war supplies must be transferred on American soil, entered the issue.

Fight Underway

Today the fight was underway, a battle going deep into the vital policies of the United States. Some statesmen argue that Great Britain and France will give up their fight against Germany if America decides not to sell munitions abroad. Others argue that the U. S. must carry out the president's proposals for "measures short of war but stronger than mere words" against a totalitarian government considered the aggressor by the New Deal.

Over all the hubbub played currents of propaganda, politics, diplomatic pressures and honest differences.

At the outset administration forces claimed about 60 senate votes in favor of the cash-and-carry law but were uncertain about the house. Opposition leaders claimed at least 30 votes, and said their projected "educational" campaign would increase already heavy mail pressure on members to vote against repeal.

State Supreme Court In Session

Last Session Under Leadership Of Chief Justice Kephart

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25.—Its roster jammed to the hilt, the Pennsylvania supreme court met in Pittsburgh today for its last session under the leadership of Chief Justice John W. Kephart of Ebensburg.

Justice Kephart's 21-year term ends January 1, when he will be succeeded by William I. Shaffer, senior jurist.

Of statewide importance on the high tribunal's schedule was the franchise tax on out-of-state corporations and argument on the full-crew act. Due to the voluminous testimony, described as the largest in the Dauphin county court's history, the record on the latter case may not be ready in time to proceed today and may be continued, it was indicated by court attaches.

The state has $35,000,000 tied up in the five-mill franchise tax, ruled invalid by President Judge William M. Hargest, of the Dauphin court, last spring. The supreme court took the appeal a few months later and the final decision is pending.

The Columbia Gas and Electric company challenged constitutionality of the tax, enacted in 1935. The state had already collected about $21,000,000 since 1935—all of which would have to be returned if the tribunal voids the impost.

Ellwood High Defeats Union High Gridders On Saturday, 26-0

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 25.—In their second appearance of the season at Lincoln field on Saturday afternoon the Ellwood City high school Wolverines broke into the victory column by defeating Coach John Susko's plucky Union Township high gridders by a 26-0 score. The locals crossed the invaders' goal line in each of the four periods.

Only a fair-sized crowd attended the game with a good representation coming from Union Township. While the temperature was not quite at the height of the previous week, it remained uncomfortably warm for players and coatless spectators.

The first Ellwood tally resulted from a sustained march from the Union 40-yard stripe with Greco going around right end for the final seven yards. Mazzant plunged thru center for the extra point. The quarter closed with the ball in the home team's possession on the Union 31-yard line.

When play was resumed, Mazzant, Biego and Reino, who had replaced Greco in the backfield, lost no time in driving to the foes' 2-yard line, where Mazzant went through right guard for the second touchdown. This time Mazzant failel in his attempt to gain the extra point by bucking the line and the Wolverines were out in front by a 13-0 margin.

Again Ellwood drove deep into the vistors' territory when Biego slipped through tackle for 31 yards and the ball was on the Union 17-yard line. However, at this juncture the home attack bogged down when Welton and Biego fumbled, but recovered the ball, in succession. Reino was obliged to kick from the 30-yard line to the Union 18.

Coach Susko's men were again to find themselves with their backs to the wall before the quarter ended as a result of Quarterback Severa's pass being intercepted by Fray on the Union 20, who returned it to the visitors' 7-yard marker. This scoring threat was nullified by Covelli, who recovered Reino's fumble on first down. The half ended with Ellwood in charge of the ball on the invaders' 18-yard line and in front 13-0.

Third Tally

Mazzant and Greco joined in paving the way for the third Blue and White tally after the contest got under way in the third period. The former practically single-handedly rushed the oval to the Union 24-yard line. Greco then skirted left end and was forced out of bounds by Severa on the three-yard stripe. On the next play Biego, on a reverse from Greco, went over for the third counter. Mazzant's placement try was good and the home eleven led by a 20-0 score.

During the rest of the third quarter the Union boys, who never stopped fighting, displayed their best form in clicking off in succession the two first downs they were to register for the afternoon. The period terminated with the Croftmen in front 20-0.

With a backfield composed entirely of promising reserves in action at the outset of the final period, the Blue and White chalked up its final tally. Gaining possession of the ball near midfield this quartet comprised of Snare, Decario, Matrangol and Rubino hammered their way to the foes' 11-yard mark where Matrangol pierced left guard for the last score. Rubino failed in an attempted drop kick for the extra point and the count read 26-0 in the Wolverines' favor. The teams played on fairly even terms during the balance of the battle.

Mazzant, Greco, Biego, Reino and Matrangol, the last named a reserve back who gives promise of developing into a fine ball carrier, were outstanding for the locals throughout the contest.

The visitors presented in Ringbloom, their center, a lad who was a tower of strength in the line. He made tackle after tackle and seemed to stand out in every play. Union Township, although beaten rather decisively, presented a well coached eleven that fought hard throughout the contest. John Susko, a former Westminster player, is their coach and his earnest efforts should bear fruit in his team's future battles against schools in class B circles.

Loyal followers of the Blue and White believe that the team showed noticeable improvement over the form displayed against Bessemer here on the preceding Saturday. However, there is much room for improvement if the Croft-Gills machine is to show to advantage aganist the strong opponents yet to be faced, starting with the contest scheduled at Rochester next Saturday.

Memorial Window Is Unveiled At Providence Baptist

Beautiful Window For Baptistry In Memory Of Mr. And Mrs. James Matheny

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 25.—Mrs. J. R. Routledge, of the Providence Baptist church, gave the following report on the special ceremonies which took place yesterday in the church:

"Sabbath was a red letter day in the history of this old historical church. A beautiful stained glass window for the Baptistry has been presented by Mrs. M. L. Matheny in memory of her parents, James Golden Harris, 1818-1889 and Letitia Harris, 1828-1913, early members of the Providence Baptist church. The window was inveiled by Mrs. Frank Main, of Ellwood City, a sister of the donor. Special dedication programs were distributed as souvenirs, and were prepared by the pastor, who preached from the words inscribed on the picture "For He is my beloved son in whom I am well pleased." The picture was conceived by a Philadelphia artist, Valentine D'Orgries. It is executed from 1,000 pieces of glass and portrays Jesus after his baptism, with the glory from Heaven descending upon him with the Dove as God acknowledges his divine sonship. John the Baptist, standing nearby with uplifted hand, is holding to his shoulder the crusader flag, typical of the beginning of the Christian era, and one can almost hear from his lips the words "He must increase but I must decrease."

The church was crowded with special visitors for the occasion, among them being Prof. and Mrs. James Matheny, and Miss Grace Matheny, of Philadelphia, former residents of this city.

Minister Facing Trial For Murder

Charge Camden Minister With Insurance-Murder Of His Young Daughter

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 25.—Haggard and wan after five weeks in jail, the Rev. Walter Dworecki goes on trial today in Camden criminal court for the insurance-slaying of his 18-year-old daughter, Wanda, whose crumpled body was found in a patch of weeds last August 8

Immediately after the trial of the stocky minister, who was pastor of a Camden Polish Baptist church, the state will try his asserted catspaw, gangling Peter Schewchuk, 18-year-old circus roustabout of Chester, Pa.

The state charges Dworecki persudaded Schewchuk to entice his daughter, admittedly a problem child who loved the young man, into the field where she was strangled to death. The prosecutor contends Dworecki was to pay $100 to her murderer after he collected approximately $5,500 in insurance.

Both pleaded guilty when arraigned in police court. Under New Jersey law, however, both must plead not guilty and stand trial since they face the electric chair if convicted of first degree murder, the crime charged in their indictments.

Air defense is the outstanding need of the Canal zone. He also urged more bombing planes, more air bases and more cavalry units and trails.

"The Canal," he declared, was conceived and constructed by our people to serve as a peaceful highway for the commerce of the world.

"We intend to make it strong enough so that it will continue to serve that peaceful purpose."

Take Several Years

Major Gen. Stone said that the rush to strengthen the Canal zone was being forced by developments in Europe and elsewhere, but he warned that it may be several years before the zone's defenses can be made invulnerable to attack.

He was enthusiastic regarding the air base at Rio Hata, on the Pacific coast 70 miles to the south, for which 19,000 acres will be obtained from the Panama government.

The field will be so constructed to provide a suitable landing and take-off place for large planes in bad weather. Other fields will be added, and some will probably be built in Panama territory.

The ground for the Rio Hata field will be obtained on a 999-year lease.

General Stone said that the $50,000,000 appropriation authorized by the last session of congress is merely a beginning toward a complete defensive system for the Canal.

It was stated these funds will be used chiefly for construction of barracks for troops stationed in the Canal zone.

CLIPPER PLANES CARRY TINY CHICKS TO HAWAII

SAN JOSE, Calif., Sept 25 — Hawaiian chicken growers are now having live chicks from the Santo Clara valley sent to them by the Clippers. Transportation and feeding for each chick is about $1.

The chicks are shipped when they are one-day old. The expense, it is said, is little more than what it would cost to ship eggs that way for hatching. The Clippers have been equipped with a heater in the baggage compartment with a capacity for 700 chicks on each trip.

Strickler Receives Interesting Bit Of Family History

Robert M. Strickler, Jr., of 415 Winter avenue, reported an interesting bit of history of the Strickler family.

Mr. Strickler's great uncle, William Abraham Strickler, moved from West Virginia to Seattle, Washington in 1880 and bought some property there. He died later and as he was not married and died intestate the property was sold at public sale for $20,000.000 in the year 1887 and this amount was divided among the deceased's heirs in West Virginia and Virginia.

Mr. Strickler states that his uncle, R. E. Talbott of Charleston, W. Va., who is state treasurer, recently returned from Seattle where he was attending the convention of the National Association of State Auditors and Treasurers. While in Seattle he went to the Recorder's office to see just what and where the property of William Abraham Strickler was. He found that it consisted of 214 acres of land, all within the city of Seattle, with an assessed valuation of over five million dollars.

VOLCANIC PEAK FROZEN DURING FOUR ICE AGES

HONOLULU, Sept. 25 — Belief that the volcanic peak Mauna Kea on the island of Hawaii has been covered by caps of glacial ice during at least four separate ice ages was expressed by two Northwestern geologists who spent five weeks there this summer.

Dr. Chester K. Wentworth and Dr. William E. Powers said they discovered four sets of glacial deposits at elevations between 8,000 and 11,000 feet, oldest of which were covered by from 10 to 100 feet of lava.

They said the earliest three deposits include large amounts of volcanic ash and indicated a larger amount of volcanic activity than the latest deposit, age of which was estimated at 30,000 years.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Sept. 25—Gathering of pine cones for the forestry service—a task formerly left to the squirrels—has been taken over by the Civilian Conservation Corps, forestry officials disclosed.

Until this year, rangers in the Black Hills, National Forest obtained their supply of cones for replanting burned areas from squirrel caches. A decrease in the squirrel population this season left the forestry service in need of 6,000 bushel of cones, however.

CCC youths were recruited as cone gatherers.

High Gridders Will Play Game Thursday Night

Will Go To Beaver Falls Thursday Night Instead Of Friday For Grid Battle

HOPE TO WIN THIRD STRAIGHT

The New Castle high school football team will go to Beaver Falls on Thursday night to meet the Beaver Falls Tigers at Reeves field under the lights. The game was set for Friday night originally but was moved up one day when it was found that Geneva had a game for Friday night at Beaver Falls. The game will start at eight o'clock.

The locals resumed training this afternoon for the important battle in the valley. The boys are all in good shape after the tough game with East High of Youngstown last Friday night. Outside of young Eddie Sowinski there were no serious injuries.

Hope for Victory

It will be necessary now to develop a new first string sub halfback to replace Sowinski. Just who will get the job is not known. McKee filled in nicely last Friday night. John Thomas is another lad who will bear watching this year. He is also a backfield candidate and a good punter.

With two wins in two starts chalked up, the "Red Hurricane" will try hard to make it three straight at Beaver Falls. Last year New Castle defeated the Tigers, 6 to 0, in a tough battle at Taggart field. Coach Frank Walton is reported to have another fine team this year, having topped Burgettstown in the opining game last Friday night, 13 to 0.

More drills on pass defense will be undertaken this week. New Castle looked good at the passing game last Friday and will develop more intricate pass plays led by Lindy Lauro. Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will smooth out a few mistakes that were made last week. The line is looking better every day. Cenname and Zarilla continue to sparkle at the ends.

Pitt Starting Lineup Is Much Of Problem

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25.—Pitt football fortunes, for the early part of the season at least, are very much tied up with the success Coach Charley Bowser has with the present jig-saw puzzle that confronts him in the arrangement of his backfield, a backfield which must be ready to go by September 30, when the Panthers meet Washington's Huskies at Seattle.

With a record series of minor injuries which have cut one available back after another from the practice lists, the Pitt coaches have been forced to teach two positions to key men in the backfield, and at present are figuring on only six backs being able to take any active part in the opener.

There is little doubt as to the starting combination. This will have Ben Kish at quarterback, Dick Cassiano and Emil Narick at the halves, and Ernie Bonelli at fullback. But here all order ceases.

With Frank Goodell, Bob Thurbon, Tommy Murphy and Edgar Jones all nursing hurts, there is little relief for the starting backs, unless the boys can handle two positions.

Dick Cassiano at left half has George Kracum, to play behind him, but Kracum, a long striding junior, has had practically no game experience. Ben Kish can be spelled by Mike Sekela, another 200 pounder, who got into the waning moments of a few games last fall, and has shown improvement this fall. This is not certain, however, as Sekela's mother is very ill, and he is likely to be called home at any time.

When Kish gets relief at quarterback, he is expected to move over to fullback to spell Ernie Bonelli, stocky little junior, moved to fullback from a third string right half job.

Bonelli, however, will still be a halfback, for he must be ready to shift over to fill in for Emil Narick, the only back left without relief.

In any case it means double duty for a lot of boys.

Afield And Astream

With Lawrence County Sportsmens Association

By GEORGE SILLMAN

Last Saturday the Lawrence County Coon Hunters Association met at the Fair Grounds and had a splendid turn out. Vic Connerly is the new president, and this was his first try at handling a coon chase. Of course if it were midnight and the season was in, well anyone could have a chase. But when a course has to be laid, and hundreds of dogs to write-up—it's different. But never-the-less fellows, it was a swell day and good-luck to you all until next time.

Our game warden, Frank "Jewie" Coen has been confined at home for the past month and we know just about how he feels, that is to be couped up from his out-of-doors. But Frank, we are all pulling for you, and the reason we haven't been bothering you with visits is that you need your rest more than you need visitors at present. So lead with your chin (that's what you used to tell me when things got tough) and you'll come out front.

The Lawrence County Sportsmen's association members are doing fine work (for what there is of it) at the Fair Grounds on the new trap-skeet field. Work is being rushed to have everything in readiness for the field day, October 7. More recruits are needed to help the work along, which is being done in the afternoons of each week day including Saturday. So youse guys that are wanting to do something for the good of the order, contact Henry Rodgers at 85-J or myself at 1255, and give us an idea when you can come out, and we thank you. Harry McCormick was chief engineer with his tape-measure and ball of cord when the new skeet field was laid out. Come out and see it for yourself sometime.

Hunting season is just 36 days away—think of it, it's just like a kid counting days until Christmas around here. Well, I know a lot of fellows who would rather see hunting season than Christmas anytime. Well how's the old trusty gas pipe, or the old double barrel, do they need cleaning, repairing? Well if they need either, now is the time to look after it. Not the day before the season or there will be a lot of frustrated hunters. Remember your gun repairman has only two hands and if you want a good job, DO IT NOW. . . .

Had the pleasure of talking with Albert Candiotto one afternoon last week, and if you birds want to get the real lowdown on muskie fishing, he is the man to see. He told me more about muskie fishing in 30 minutes than I could go out and learn for myself in 30 days. Don't kid yourself that there ain't anything to it, ask-the-man-who-has-one. Albert has fished for them from New Castle to Canada, from the Ohio state line to Portersville, and used anything from 4 pound to 18 pound test lines and leaders on these bruisers. He advises anyone who has never landed one, to play it out completely, before ever attempting to land it. Which is good advice in any country, as lot of big big fish have been lost just due to this. I'll take you up on that fishing trip one of these nights, Albert, so be prepared.

We told you about Elmer last week being up at Cameron county doing repair work on the Bear Camp, but failed to tell you how he come about cutting his finger. Well, he never cut it, he ran the saw into it. From as much as I can collect, he was on the roof using the saw when all of sudden the saw hit, what seemed to be a knot in the board, was his finger underneath. I'm telling you Elmer, them saws' are wicked if not handled right. No I won't tell them about you sawing on the wrong end of the board and dropping yourself down off the roof, they wouldn't believe it anyway.

Did you know that the Sportsmen's Council of Lawrence county consists of the following clubs:

Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association
Ellwood City Rod and Gun Club
Bessemer Rod and Gun Club
Lawrence County Coon Hunters Association
West Pittsburg Sportsmen's Association
Mahoning Valley Sportsmen's Association
Hillsville Rod and Gun Club
The Pennsylvania Rod and Gun Club
Shenango Valley Sportmen's Association

—and that each and everyone of them are in back of the County Field Day, October 7, at the New Castle Fair Grounds. Don't miss this big day, better still draw a circle around that date on your favorite calendar.

"Ye Anglers Dictionary" quotes a REEL as follows: A coffee-mill invented by Satan, and designed to come loose, get out of order, or snarl up at critical times, thereby including lurid and profuse profanity. (end of quote). FISH LINE: An expensive piece of string used on a reel. It snarls, gets snagged, and is guaranteed to break at the right time, thereby creating the necessary alibi for the "whopper" that got away. WHOPPER: A term used to describe all fish which get away. Associated words are "whale," "big 'un," "granpa," "sock-dolager," "longasyourarm."

(I hope this runs out before hunting season, or we might have to continue it next season.) Sountilnext-time—GOOD-LUCK.

Bessemer High Spills Hubbard

Cement City Eleven Registers 23rd Consecutive Victory By 14-7 Margin

PELTO-MOSES SCORE WINNING TOUCHDOWNS

(Special To The News)

BESSEMER, Sept. 25.—Clicking like a Swiss barometer, Bessemer high school's powerful gridiron juggernaut mowed down its 23rd consecutive opponent, strong Hubbard high, Saturday afternoon at Bessemer, before an excited gallery. The final score, 14-7.

Resorting mostly to power plays, the Cement City edition marched from their own 20 to Hubbard's 4 in the opening period. Charging like a billy goat, Pelto slashed through the frontier line for Bessemer's initial touchdown. Shuluga rifled the pigskin to Pelto for the extra marker.

As the quarter drew to a close, Bessemer started another unstoppable drive towards pay dirt. The Red and Black clad horde grabbed the oval on Hubbard's 40 and pushed it to the 27. Pelto electrified the spectators by sprinting to the 12. On the next play Pelto stepped back to the 17 and heaved a bullet-like pass to Moses who scored. Another aerial, Pelto to Moses, gave Bessemer its 14th marker.

Hubbard Scores

The Ohioans cashed in their lone touchdown in the second chapter. From the mid-stripe Hubbard penetrated their way to Bessemer's 40. S. Katko unleashed a pass to Watson who scampered 40 yards across the land where touchdowns bloom. Wylde split the uprights for the extra marker.

Pelto and Moses played brilliantly for Bessemer. McCree and Skuta played a fine game on the line. McWilliams was one of the most spectacular gridders on the field. The Ohioan's defensive play was one of the features of the exciting clash.

The lineup:

Bessemer—14.		Hubbard—7.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Conn-Bettina Fight Tonight

Expect Crowd Of 30,000 Will Sit In On Light-Heavyweight Title Fight Tonight

CONN HOPES TO MEET JOE LOUIS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25—Sweet William Conn, the pride of this "teeming industrial metropolis, will go out to defend his light-heavyweight boxing crown tonight for the first time against unorthodox Melio Bettina, from whom he captured the title last July 13.

The fight will mark the crossroads in the careers of both fighters and it is almost imperative for both their futures that they emerge the victor. That, of course, is impossible.

At stake for the handsome Pittsburgh champion will be a chance to enter into competition with the heavyweights—and a possible crack at champion Joe Louis, which probably will net the first million dollar gate since the Tunney-Dempsey era, if it comes to pass.

Win For Friends

Also Conn will be showing as champion before the home-town fans for the first time. He said "I gotta win for friends in Pittsburgh after all the faith they have shown in me."

Bettina, the socking southpaw from Beacon, N. Y. weighs his destiny in the business of bashed noses and cauliflower ears, in tonight's battle. Should be lose—the gambling odds are 3-1 against him—he likely will drop into oblivion.

Apparently the chunky little Italian, with the determined heart realizes all this, for he finished up his training by whipping his sparring partners mercilessly. He then went into seclusion until the weigh in ceremonies today.

Expect Big Crowd

An estimated crowd of 30,000 fight fans were expected to pay a total of $70,000 to witness the struggle which will be the third boxing extravaganza promoted by Mike Jacobs within ten days.

The last fight between Conn and Bettina in New York ended with the clean-cut hiberian getting the nod and the title in a very close decision. For this reason, Promoter Jacobs decided on a retake of the savage spectacle in Conn's own bailiwick.

SHENANGO POTTERY GIRLS WILL BOWL

The girls will meet at 3:45 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon at the plant for an election of officers. The president of the league will be Miss Betty Scheik, having been named a short while ago. Other officers will be elected at the Tuesday session. The league will bowl at the Castle alleys and will start on October 3.

College Grid Season Opens On Saturday

A sprinkling of nationally known collegiate gridiron powers made their 1939 debut Saturday. As usual, the big timers had brisk workouts at the expense of what could be termed—small frys.

The topnotchers who made their debut, ran wild against the small frys. North Carolina, for instance, smothered the Citadel, 50-0. Mississippi State greeted the pigskin campaign with a 45-0 verdict over Howard. Clemson, waiting for Tulane next Saturday, piled up an 18-0 edge over little Presbyterian and quick scoring for the day. Wake Forest, which has been press agented to the sky during the past weeks verified all those good things said about it by sidetracking South Carolina 19-7.

Florida averaged last years 16-14 defeat at the hands of Stetson, winning 21-0. North Carolina State ran into a snag but managed to come through with an 18-14 verdict over Davidson. Illinois entertained the Frosh and scored, 12-0. Texas A. and M. chose Oklahoma A. and M. for batting practice and romped home an easy 32-0 victor. Arkansas found Central Oklahoma cakes and won 32-6. Iowa State found Coe somewhat stubborn but won 19-0. Washington State took its inaugural over Gongaza, 19-6.

As could be expected several upsets were recorded. San Jose State polished San Francisco, 16-6. Ohio U. went down 14-7, Western Kentucky Teachers doing the trick. Glenville Teachers held Salem to a 0-0 count.

Practically every nationally known college eleven inaugurates the season this coming Saturday. In this district, Pitt flies to Seattle for a tussle with the Washington Huskies, in one of the headliners. Duquesne takes on Illinois Wesleyan at Forbes Field, Friday night while Carnegie Tech, already being tabbed as one of the '39 national grid powers, lineup against Wittenberg. Grove City makes its debut against Clarion while Bethany faces the Westmintser Titans. Slippery Rock is slated to meet Shippensburg.

Sports World Ramblings

Shaffer in Hero Role—Freddy Shaffer was the hero of Friday's tiff which gave the Louisville Colonels the American Association diadem. The taciturn local blonde stepped to the mound in the sixth and checked Indianapolis, who had crossed the home platter four times that inning to deadlock the score. From then on Shaffer goose-egged his foes. In the eighth he got a free ticket to first, dashed to second on a walk and scampered home with the championship run on a single. The Colonels now move along into the little world series. Shaffer will get plenty of action in this perennial classic.

Baseball Flashes—Two days before the Yanks checked in their fourth straight American League banner, 1,678 customers watched them play—their record low for the season . . . The American Association attracted more than 1,500,000 fans during the past season, a new attendance record . . . Lou Gehrig has received $40,000 worth of offers for next year. He even has a chance to do a 15-minute daily broadcast . . . Women make up 25 per cent of the attendance at Wrigley Field, exclusive of ladies' day.

A Shot of This and That—Pat Comiskey, the Garfield, N. J. heavyweight kayo artist, added Tony Celli to his list in two heats last week. At 21 Bobby Riggs occupies a spot alongside Budge, Perry, Vines and Tilden. At such a tender age he holds both the Wimbledon and American National tennis coronets . . . One of Joe Louis' staunchest rooters is Jim Braddock. The former champ draws down 10 per cent on Louis' scraps as a result of a stipulation made before he crawled through the ropes to meet the Brown Destroyer.

Gridiron Niblets—Dr. Jock Sutherland is now linked with Yale and Ohio State. If he returns to the coaching ranks I still say back to Pitt . . . San Francisco university has a freshman gridder handled Walter Senior Junior . . . The word is spreading that Michigan is the Big Ten "it". Crisler's backfield and line are tops. If they fail this year, next season for sure . . . South California will shoot the works in the hope of a no-hit-no-run season.

Reds And Cards Both Striving To Capture Flag

Reds In Front By Three And Half Games Over St. Louis Cardinals

WILL PLAY TWO GAMES TUESDAY

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The National league pennant race now has reached the point where we can attempt to foretell by mere hours when the last gasps will be made. Specifically, the end could arrive by sundown tomorrow, with the Cincinnati Reds finally established as the winners, the new champions and the opponents, to the best of their ability, of the New York Yankees in the world series starting next week. Or the contrary St. Louis Cardinals could stave off what seems to be the bitter inevitable for another 24 hours and perhaps more.

Reds Or Cards?

Anhow, the Reds and Cards are both in the midst of winning streaks that have reached seven games, and the former still are in front by 3½ games. The showdown to everything that has transpired up to now this season may be present in Tuesday's double-header between the contenders at Cincinnati. If they can't settle it tomorrow they almost certainly will in single games on Wednesday and Thursday.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the Reds wind up with the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cards finish with the Chicago Cubs—bringing the season to a close.

As things stand by this time it is almost an absolute necessity that the Cards win four straight from the Reds. Three out of the four would leave them 1½ games behind with only three left.

The Cards are playing good enough baseball right now and have been for a couple of weeks to win the pennant more often than not, but it just so happens, that the Reds are in stride down through the stretch, too.

Cards Trim Cubs

The Cards, for instance, knocked the Chicago Cubs off by 9 to 1 yesterday, with Max Lanier on the mound, but the Reds trimmed the Pirates, 11 to 2, behind Paul Derringer, who scored his 24th triumph.

Meantime, the Brooklyn Dodgers continued to make their presence felt in the National league scramble by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 3 to 1 and 6 to 1, and with that moved into third place, one-half game ahead of the Cubs and 10 behind the second place Cards.

The Boston Bees lost to the New York Giants, 5 to 4 in the opener of a twin bill and took the nightcap, 5 to 3.

The New York Yankees—already in as pennant-winners—clung to their 17-game lead in the American league by defeating the Washington Senators, 3 to 2, while the Boston Red Sox were downing the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 4. The Detroit Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians, 2 to 1 and 9 to 1, and the Chicago White Sox won from the St. Louis Browns, 11 to 9 and 4 to 3.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL.

A very pleasant surprise was dealt to us last Friday afternoon. For some time we have been looking for an old fashioned white peach . . . the kind that our parents used to eat and can. Our search was almost without fruit . . . when Mrs. Byler of Parkstown Corners called and said she had some of these peaches. A trip to her home confirmed the whole thing and today we have a nice supply for the winter months. There is nothing like an old fashioned white peach with a red center to start a cold winter morning breakfast . . . try them sometime.

Wasn't yesterday a beautiful day? A great many folks thought summer was here and partook of another picnic. We don't blame them a bit. But when we think of picnics we are reminded of a speech made by a young fellow the other day when he said . . . "they say ants are busy creatures, but I can't figure why, if they are so busy, they can always find time to attend picnics".

* * *

Last night several folks called and asked what the unusual light was in the Western skies. After making several trips to the outside the light was finally sighted. Upon inquiring around and listening to different stories we have come to one conclusion . . . one that can be easily changed if proper proof is given. The theory is, that a converter in some surrounding steel mill has a crack in its side or top and the light that seeps through is reflected into the sky. Upon thinking over this thought you will agree no doubt that the light did resemble a fire and not some form of planet light. If you differ, write in and say your word.

Air Progress Week had its big blowout yesterday at the Airport . . . some fifty strange planes landed at the field . . . partook of the breakfast and talked shop. A large crowd from the surrounding country side stopped at the field and made up an eager audience. The 'chute jump was unable to be staged on account of equipment. There is no doubt about flying becoming one of the most popular means of travel . . . straight flying is fine . . . stunt flying should be left to the reckless fellow.

It's easy to use the classified ads . . . read them and reap the savings.

Stock Market In Modest Rise

Market Duplicates Performance Of Saturday In Morning Trend

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The stock market today duplicated its modest rise of Saturday after a mixed and hesitant tone at the start.

Trading was comparatively dull, although the pace increased as the list firmed in the second hour. A few stocks gained a point or so, but changes generally were of fractional proportions.

Steels and rails led the slow advance. Bethlehem moved a point above Saturday's close while U. S. Steel gained nearly as much. Great Northern Railway preferred paced the carrier section with a runup of more than a point.

Allied Chemical, which broke 4 points Saturday, recovered half of this on its initial sale. U. S. Gypsum and Union Carbide each gained about a point. Westinghouse climbed 2 points.

Smaller gains were shown by Chrysler, American Smelting, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Rubber and Western Union.

There were a few backward issues. Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Eastman Kodak and International Harvester each were down more than a point at the start, but substantially reduced losses as the general market firmed.

Commodities held in a narrow range, including grains and cotton. Minor staples were mixed and quiet. Foreign obligations recovered further in a dull bond market. Stock dealings abroad were featureless.

Five Mill Franchise Tax On Out-Of State Corporations Upheld

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25.—Pennsylvania's supreme court today upheld the five-mill franchise tax on out-of-state corporations.

The decision, announced by Chief Justice John W. Kephart, reversed the ruling of the Dauphin county court and remitted the record to the State department of revenue for settlement of tax claims.

Support of the franchise tax saved the commonwealth an estimated $14,000,000 in revenue during the current biennium, as well as about $21,000,000 already collected since 1935.

Constitutionality of the levy was challenged by the Columbia Gas and Electric company and last spring President Judge William M. Hargest, of Dauphin county, ruled the act invalid.

The appellate court in its opinion discussed the capital stock tax of June 1, 1889, amended in 1929, as compared with the new franchise tax enacted by the Earle administration.

"The old tax," the court held," did not even reach all the tangible property of the enterprise located in this state," and it added:

"The new tax is more in keeping with the benefits received from this state. The tax base represents the value of their (the corporation's) right to do business in this state."

The Dauphin county jurist held that the tax discriminated against out-of-state corporations in favor of domestic firms. At that time he remarked that a tax of $192,000 on a company which had gross receipts in Pennsylvania of $31,451 "awakens an inquiry into such a system".

The high court's reversal of the decision came almost as an "eleventh hour" fiscal break for the administration of Gov. Arthur H. James, faced, at least until today, with the imminence of a special legislative session to provide relief funds.

Whether the saving in tax revenues incurred through the franchise act ruling would be a deciding factor with regard to a special session remained to be seen.

Remittance of papers in the case to the department of revenue was specified for settlement of tax claims against the Columbia concern.

Justice Kephart announced at the outset of the session that justice James B. Drew would not be present at the current meeting. Justice Drew is in a hospital, he said.

THOUSANDS SEE AIR SHOW HERE

the noon hour Sunday for a mass flight in a wide sweeping circle of the city. The local flyers led the parade and dipped wings in salute at the city square in passing.

After circling the city, many of the out-of-towners broke formation and headed for their home ports, many finding it necessary to return for airport operation. This early leaving of many of the ships left the late comers to the field rather disappointed insofar as they failed to see the complete and impressive lineup of 68 ships, including the local planes and the visitors.

Afternoon program was based on free-for-all contests for testing piloting skill and marksmanship. Spot landing contests were the first events, with a class of 10 contestants, flying all models of ships.

Final spot landing winners were Al Surgalski, first, of Patterson Heights, Pa.; and Earl Reichel of Meadville, second. Both received handsome gift awards.

Bomb Dropping

In the bomb dropping free-for-all, 10 ships took aloft three one-pound bombs made of paper bags filled with gray slate flour, and the pilots attempted to hit a circle in the center runway from a distance of not less than 500 feet, upon the completion of a diving approach.

From 500 feet the spot on the ground appears very small and it requires great skill to judge the wind-drift and rate of fall to get the bomb near the correct spot. Of course, some tries were way off, but a well-known local pilot came out victorious with a drop of 65 feet closest the circle. Ben Themos was made happy with the grand prize award.

Taylor Wins Event

The third contest, known to the aviation world as paper strafing, or ribbon cutting, kept the spectators' heads upturned for several minutes. The idea of this difficult maneuver is for the pilot to gain an altitude of 2,000 feet, and throwing out a roll of paper, return the ship as a cutting implement while the paper is unrolling, and slice through it.

The youngest pilot at the local field was touted for his remarkable flying performance, that of perfection. Out of six attempts, Paul Taylor, aged 17, made six successive clean cuts of the ribbon and was presented first prize. Ellsworth Dewberry, another local pilot, came in second place.

A thrilling exhibition of precision flying and aerial acrobatics was presented in the individual style of John Dochko. Spirals, loops, wing-overs and spinning dives portrayed a spectacular sight of aerodynamic flight.

Near the close of the day Ellsworth Dewberry provided the crowd with a nerve-tingling continuous spin from the dizzy height of 3,000 feet. Nine complete turns were made before he pulled out into level flight. Several of the visiting pilots also put on shows, one in particular exhibiting a very fast ship-in-straight-line speed performance. The ship reached a speed of 200 miles per hour.

Sponsored by N. A. A.

The thousands of spectators were kept busy eyeing the ships, as several took off and landed at almost the same time throughout the day. With all of this flying there was never a hint of trouble or accident on the part of any pilot or ship.

All competitions and contest events were conducted under the aircraft regulations as prescribed by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, and as approved for staging of the Aviation Day program Sunday at the airport as part and finale to the Greater New Castle "Air Progress Week of 1939".

The huge crowds at the field were efficiently handled and kept from harm by a detail from Troop K of the Pennsylvania national guard, by Boy Scouts, members of the state motor police and by members of the local Model Builders club.

Prizes that went to the contest winners were cheerfully donated by various merchants.

Request Moore To Confer With Solons

Report State May Refuse To Maintain Portion Of Croton Avenue

Because the New Castle Street Electric railway reportedly did not repair the roadbed the company used in Croton avenue the way the state highway department desired, the latter has implied it may not maintain it, unless their suggestions are complied with. The rail slots were filled with bituminous asphalt and the state highway department wanted brick.

City Engineer Glenn R. Throop told Mayor Charles E. McGrath and council today he advised the street car company the work was not being done according to the wishes of the state highway department.

The public utilities commission order granting abandonment of the street car route in favor of busses did not state how the work was to be done in Croton avenue, Councilman W. H. Dunlap stated.

Mayor McGrath retorted that the utilities commission and the highway department are two different bodies and it was the latter department that wanted brick.

On motion of Councilman Dunlap, T. C. Moore, superintendent of the street car company, has been invited to confer with council relative to the job and to give information regarding similar jobs in other cities.

Warsaw Radio Says That City Still Holds Out

Tales Of Horror And Heroism Come Out Of Beleaguered City Over Air

GERMANS CONTINUE INCESSANT ATTACK

Dispite Destruction In City Polish Continue To Keep Up Defense

By GEORGE BALINT

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 25—Tales of horror and heroism, destruction and madness, crackled today from the Warsaw radio station as the half-destroyed Polish capital fought on through unceasing German bombardments.

Music by Chopin was transmitted at intervals between news broadcasts which told dramatically that at least 1000 civilians were killed in firing which went on incessantly since Saturday afternoon.

Half the houses in Warsaw were on fire, the announcer said. Many have leaped to their death from flaming buildings, and many more have gone insane and committed suicide.

Streets Filled With Dead

British And French Reject Peace Feelers By Italian Premier

(International News Service)

Warsaw, its streets said by Poles to be littered with dead, its building aflame, but its defenders fighting on, today was a smoking example of what modern war means, but it failed to daunt the French and British in their determination not to succumb to any German peace gestures.

Italian Premier Mussolini's speech urging that now was the time to end the war, and Germany's statement that the campaign in Poland is concluded were feelers which Chancellor Hitler was expected to follow up shortly with more concrete peace proposals.

Turned Down In Advance

But these were turned down in advance—and Britain and France now believe that Chancellor Hitler is at last convinced that he is in for a fight to the finish on the western front.

Il Duce suggested that since Germany had presented an accomplished fact in Poland, and that

PARIS, Sept. 25.—With further French advances and Geman reverses on the Saar front, preparations for a major engagement today were said in authoritative French military quarters to be "budding slowly."

Communique No. 43 this morning said: "Local improvement was made in our positions.

"The enemy's artillery was active southeast of Zweibrucken."

In the feinting and probing for position over the week end, according to the French, three German battalions and numerous small patrols were wiped out. (An European continental army battalion consists of from 480 to 1600 men.)

Following the defeat of numerous German counter-attacks, the French consolidated their positions and held all the ground they had gained.

King Carol At Funeral For Slain Premier

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 25. Stringent measures against any internal action which might result in foreign intervention continued in Rumania today following last rites for Armand Calinescu, the premier who was assassinated Thursday by members of the Pro-Nazi iron guard.

King Carol 11 risked his own life to attend services in Bucharest for his slain friend and close adviser. He was, however, closely guarded when state officials and government authorities paid tribute to Calinescu at the Athenium in Bucharest.

Young Crown Prince Michael marched alone behind the hearse, which was drawn by six oxen, to the place of burial. Scores of important figures made the trip, but King Carol remained in Bucharest.

As the coffin was lifted from the train, police arrested Spanish Minister Pratt Y. Souza's chauffeur and threatened to shoot him on the ground that he was a member of the iron guard. The minister later secured the chauffeur's release on the plea that his opinions had been changed.

British Navy Seeks To Bottle Up German Subs

Hope To Prevent U-Boats From Reaching Bases Of Supplies

SEVERAL MORE SHIPS ARE SUNK

Swedish Steamer Is One Of Latest To Be Sent Down By Submarines

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 25—Britain's naval campaign against German submarines entered a new phase today after the sinking of the 31st British merchantman, as warships strove to bottle up German submarines which are now running low on supplies.

Most of the u-boats have been to sea from three to four weeks, it was believed, and the British hope to prevent their returning to bases for supplies, or venturing to sea again.

The Freighter Hazelside was shelled and sunk within sight of the South Irish shore Sunday by two u-boats. Twenty-two members of her crew were picked up after they took to lifeboats, but 12 are missing.

The Hazelside was en route from British Columbia to Liverpool. She was a vessel of 4646 tons.

The 1510-ton Gertrud Blatt, a Swedish steamer bound with a cargo of cellulose for Bristol, Eng., was sent to the bottom off South Norway. A German airplane also took part in action against the ship. The crew of 18 was saved in lifeboats.

Since the outbreak of the war the toll of merchant ships is: British 31; 148,913 onts; German, 4; 14,764 tons; French, 1; 3747 tons; neutrals 9, 25,002 tons.

Floyd Gibbons Taken By Death

Noted Correspondent Of World War Dies At Stroudsburg, Pa.

HEART AILMENT CAUSE OF DEATH

(International News Service)

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 25.—Death today had forever stilled the tireless typewriter fingers and the machine gun voice of Floyd Gibbons, one of the most famous of war correspondents, as the new war which might have given him his greatest assignment, raged on in Europe.

Although the once-rugged six foot Gibbons, whose trade-mark was a white linen patch over his missing left eye, had experienced perilous adventure while on assignment in virtually every quarter of the globe, he died peacefully on his farm in Cherry Valley, near Stroudsburg. He was 52.

Heart Ailment Cause

The heart ailment which claimed Gibbons' life had kept him virtually an invalid for the past several months but only yesterday a report was current on Broadway that the veteran war correspondent had smelled gunpowder again and was to be given an assignment covering the new war.

Gibbons was perpetually present when the big war news broke and this led the late Will Rogers to observe of a threatening war:

"It's not official until Gibbons arrives."

The eye Gibbons lost on a French battlefield in the World War was the price he paid for a career of excitement such as few newspaper-

Results of the attack, the first of their kind made by either Allied power deep in Germany, were not known.

Check-Rein On Powers Of President Provided In Neutrality Measure

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A vital check-rein on President Roosevelt's discretionary powers has been written into proposed cash-and-carry neutrality legislation by its administration sponsors, it was disclosed today when a draft of the bill was put before the full senate foreign relations committee.

Under the bill, congress would have the authority to invoke the nation's neutrality law in any international emergency whenever it felt that the president was unwise in delaying application of the law's restrictions against foreign belligerents.

Congress Could Act

Should the president fail to apply the neutrality law, it could be placed in effect by a simple concurrent resolution of the house and senate.

Carefully drafted to keep presidential discretion at a minimum, the proposed bill, already approved by 15 of the 16 Democratic members of the foreign relations committee, came as a surprise to forces fighting the president's proposal to sub-

Britain Again Refuses Peace On Hitler Terms

Emphatically Rejects Overtures Suggested In Mussolini Speech

HITLERISM MUST GO ENGLAND REITERATES

Chamberlain's Expressed Stand On Cause Of War Is Again Stressed

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 25—Britain's reply to German peace overtures sent via Rome today was a resounding double-barreled "No."

First was a flat rejection of the German "fait accompli" in Poland, coupled with a reiteration that that Britain and France would fight to their goal—the extermination of Hitlerism.

Second was the announcement from "somewhere in France" that the British expeditionary force is still moving into position and concentrating forces preparatory to going into action.

Reply To Mussolinia

Peace feelers came Saturday, through Premier Mussolini of Italy who suggested that any further extension of the war, after Germany had acquired what she wanted in Poland, seemed unreasonable. The ministry of information replied promptly.

"Official circles understand and appreciate the sincerity of Signor Mussolini's motives."

"But the suggestions that by no spreading the conflict further in view of the Russian "Fait accompli" Great Britain and France have compromised their moral justification for attempting to annul the German "fait accompli" is not understood here.

"The decision of the British people to declare war was indeed a direct consequence of the invasion of Poland—but invasion of Poland was itself but further illustration of the lawlessness in international affairs when it is the principal purpose of this country to resist."

To Redeem Europe

The statement then repeated Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's statement to Parliament, that Britain's purpose in this struggle "is to redeem Europe from the recurring fear of German aggression, and enable the people of Europe to preserve their independence and their liberties."

President Returns To White House

Ends Stay At Hyde Park, N. Y.

Comes Back To Capital To Direct Battle On Neutrality Legislation

NO ENGAGEMENTS ON DAY'S SCHEDULE

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—President Roosevelt returned to Washington this morning from Hyde Park to resume personal direction of the administration's fight in congress to get the arms embargo repealed.

The two-day stay at his family home on the Hudson afford the president his first real rest since the European war broke out.

Despite his obvious intention of assuming direct command of strategy in the impending senate battle, the president came back to the White House without any advance engagements. He may see—probably will—various senate leaders during the day but the appointments were not arranged overnight.

The executive also had decided not to call in the "big four"—Vice-President Garner, Speaker Bankhead, Senate majority leader Barkley and house majority leader Rayburn—as is his custom on Monday during regular sessions of congress. Whether the practice will be resumed later in the special session was not made known.

since Britain did not declare war on the Soviet Union for its invasion of Poland, it was absurd to carry on the conflict.

With unswerving purpose Britain replied through the ministry of information: The German invasion was a further illustration of the lawlessness in international affairs which it is the principal purpose of this country to resist."

The ministry repeated the purpose of the conflict as stated by Premier Chamberlain: "To redeem Europe from the perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression."

French Share View

French official quarters, as they have made clear in repeated statements in the last few weeks, share this view and they are especially determined that Germany shall not drive a diplomatic wedge between Britain and France.

Nevertheless, Hitler was expected to raise the olive branch shortly, if not directly or through Italy, then by way of some benevolently neutral country.

If Anglo-French persistance has persuaded him finally that a long and hard war is inevitable, his peace gesture, in the allies' view will be aimed to put the blame for the war on London and Paris.

Charred Warsaw sent out broadcasts telling of carnage—interspersed with music by Chopin. More than 1000 civilians have been killed in a German bombardment that has gone on without ceasing since Saturday afternoon, the Warsaw radio station asserted.

Ten air raids occurred Sunday, and hundreds were reported killed in a hospital.

Warsaw Appeals For Aid

Warsaw appealed urgently for Anglo-French aid, and in spite of the virtual collapse of Polish resistance at points other than the Warsaw area, there appeared in London a significant British agency dispatch saying Warsaw officials believed their S.O.S. might be answered.

Chancellor Hitler was reported in London to be rushing her troops and airplanes to the western front. There the Germans have carried out numerous probing movements, but no large German offensive is looked for until after Hitler's final peace gesture.

All the German counter-attacks, according to French commentators, were repulsed, and the French were able to make still further gains.

Poilus, it was asserted, have reached the outskirts of Saarbruecken, and are within sight of Zweibruecken.

Thirty-one British ships now have been sunk by the German, for a tonnage loss of 148,913. But the British say the U-boat campaign has about reached the end of its effectiveness. The submersibles have been at sea for nearly four weeks, their crews are worn, and they are running low on supplies. The might of the British navy is concentrating now on seeing that they either are cut off from base, or are not permitted to put to sea again.

and National Theater were burned to ashes, the radio station announced.

Appalling Sights

Appalling sights were witnessed when the Ujazdowsky hospital was bombed and hundreds of patients were killed, the broadcast asserted. Doctors and nurses struggled through the night to find the wounded in the debris, their search lights merely bringing to view fresh horrors.

After the strains of Chopin died away and the Warsaw announcer ended his news broadcasts, he cried out in an agitated voice:

"England! France! Please rush help—we are being slaughtered!"

Nevertheless, it was asserted, the morale of the civilians and soldiers remains high, and the announcer said "Our soldiers will continue to fight on to victory."

(An exchange telegraph—British-Dispatch from Warsaw said that early assistance for Warsaw was indispensible if hundreds of thousands of lives are to be saved. Warsaw officials believe that in spite of the circumstances, the city's SOS will be answered, said exchange.)

Viscount Halifax, British foreign minister, summoned Ivan Maisky the Soviet ambassador Saturday evening, and asked him for a statement on the ambitions of Russia in Poland, it was learned.

Halifax also asked Maisky for a definite outline from the Soviets on their future intentions in the greater sphere of the European war.

men have known. The eye was shot away and his left arm was drilled by two machine gun bullets from a German sniping crew in Belleau Wood, near Chateau-Thierry in June, 1918.

Gibbons' journalistic career was studded with spectacular scoops and hair-raising adventures, and his success as a reporter was credited in large measure to his possession of those three things so necessary to a newspaperman—unflagging energy, doggered persistency and luck.

He covered the World War, the Japanese invasion of China in 1932 and the Italian conquest of Ethiopia, among other war assignments.

His newspaper assignments took him all over the world, and it often was said of him that he crowded a century of thrills into a few years.

Most of his widely read news beats and dramatic eyewitness stories of events on the most active news fronts in the world since the World war were written for International News Service.

He was born in Washington, D. C., on July 16, 1887, the son of Edward Thomas and Emma Theresa Gibbons. He was educated at Gonzaga college and Georgetown University, and began his newspaper career on the Minneapolis Daily News in 1907.

SEE PREPARATIONS FOR MAJOR DRIVE ON WEST FRONT

came streaking towards various French positions along a 60-mile front—first by companies, then by battalions then again by smaller units such as patrols.

Germany artillery constantly pounded the French lines.

The nature of the German action, with units repeatedly thrown into the forays, showed according to French observers, that in spite of the waste of man-power, the Germans are determine to find any weak spots in the French line.

Use Swift Tanks

In battering back the German assaults, the French used swift baby tanks to assist machine gun and automatic rifle units.

Air fighting remained minor and localized, with the French asserting that allied reconnaissance is proving far superior to the enemy's. Flights are mainly confined to mapping and picture-making expeditions.

Experts in Paris estimate that the Germans have no more than 24 army divisions on the western front, and will not be able to reinforce them by more than 20 divisions from Poland for the time being.

Military circles believed the enemy shortly will open still larger counter-attacks, probably northeast of the Lauter river in the wooded hills near where the French frontier reaches the Rhine river.

At Outskirts Of Saarbrucken

French troops have reached the outskirts of Saarbrucken, large industrial city in the Saarland, and are within sight of Zweibruecken, it was reported in Paris.

This approach worries the German general staff, say the French, causing the Germans anxiety over the safety of Saarbrucken, Zweibruecken, Pirmasens and Bergzabern.

Those four points were said to be under French artillery fire.

With further charges that German airplanes attacked civilian populations in Poland, Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., United States ambassador to Poland, was in Paris today following a harrowing trip out through Rumania.

Biddle estimated that the Germans used 5000 airplanes, attacking the Poles in waves from East Prussia, Austria and Slovakia.

"The German airplanes made a general attack on the interior of Poland, while Polish planes were confined to operations with their army," Biddle said.

"From what I learned from trustworthy sources, and from what we saw ourselves, the Poles were able to bring down more than 300 Nazi planes."

southeast squall as she returned from Anacapa island to the Point Mugu fishing camp. The pilot house, where 24 of the 26 passengers were believed huddled, immediately was torn away by ground swells.

"Someone pushed a life preserver at me in the hold and somehow I got out safely," said Abe Agins, Warner Bros. paint set foreman. "I felt a terrific jar when the boat hit the shore but I didn't know what had happened."

The storm smashed vessels against piers, breakwaters and beaches. It was a tragic finale to the worst heat wave ever to visit southern California. From all sections of the coast came reports of rescues.

Tragedy piled on tragedy. Coast guardsmen were unable to find a trace of three youths who were seen clinging to a skiff off Point Fermin. Two lost their lives when a cabin cruiser was dashed against the Los Angeles breakwater. A woman was drowned when a yacht capsized at Newport beach. Two youths died in the surf at Brighton beach on Terminal island.

No word had been received from two sport boats, Dispatch and Indiana. These craft had 70 persons aboard. A report that one of the ships had the other under tow was unconfirmed.

The gale was severe at Los Angeles harbor where the United States fleet, prepared for maneuvers, stood with steam up prepared to scurry to safety if the winds increased in violence. The navy did not verify a report that a destroyer had been slightly damaged.

Power lines were broken in San Fernando valley, where a number of motion picture notables reside, by high winds. The rain was general.

At about the same time, fifteen or twenty German trawlers arrived off Hjeltefjord in the vicinity of Algoy.

No further details of the reported sea battle were known.

stitute cash-and-carry provisions of the present absolute embargo on the shipment of U. S. arms to warring nations.

Administration leaders were confident that the bill's stringent provisions would win supporters from the anti-repeal opposition, but the so-called "isolationists" stuck to their slogan: "no repeal of the present arms embargo."

BRITISH NAVY SEEKS TO BOTTLE UP GERMAN SUBS

zelside's crew were picked up after six hours afloat on a small boat and a raft. Five were injured, one seriously. The captain is among the missing.

No Warning Given

Radio operator Birkett, one of the injured, said the merchantman was fired on without warning." Two members of the crew were killed outright," he asserted, "and two of the ship's lifeboats were wrecked."

A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said sinking of the Gertrud Blatt created a furore in Sweden, where it was stated that the sinking of neutral ships affects all northern countries.

If, it was argued, the Germans decided that cellulose is contraband they might as well say butter is contraband.

Reuters said the Swedes affirmed it would not be surprising if Sweden refused to supply Germany with iron ore. This stoppage, it was held, would be a blow to Germany, who has been importing 6,000,000 tons of ore yearly from Sweden.

were dressed, he said. On the way back from the hospital, he claimed that one of the men pointed a gun at him from the front of the patrol. When he called the policeman a name, he claims that the policeman got out, came to the rear of the car and again beat him with a blackjack.

Cross-Examination

On cross-examination the defense sought to show the reputation of the defendant. It was shown that a gun had been found between the ticks of the bed on which Bell was lying, a fact that he had admitted on his direct examination. Bell also denied that there had been any trouble of any kind about his place, previous to the arrival of the police. He admitted that he had been in trouble before, having been arrested here for drunken driving. At that time two butcher knives and a rifle were found in his home. The defense had them in court and showed them to the jury.

It was also admitted by the defendant that he had done time in the Allegheny county workhouse, on two occasions, of four months each. He had been sent up from South View, Pa. He had served thirty days here on a drunken driving charge. Bell also admitted that he had been fingerprinted. He was questioned at some length about the making of the information before 'Squire Kimmel at Lakewood. He said Attorney Keller had taken him to the squire's office. Questions were also asked Bell regarding his attendance at a Communistic meeting held in a hall on Washington street.

Wife Testifies

Leola Bell, wife of the prosecutor, testified that her husband had not been beating her and had not threatened her with a gun. She knew where the gun was kept between the mattresses, and said that it was not loaded. On the evening when the police arrived, she said there had been no trouble in the home. She had gone out to get a paper of tobacco at a near by grocery. As she was returning she heard her husband yelling and sounds as of someone beating him. She ran to the house and saw the policemen. They were beating her husband, she said. There were four, and she recognized the three defendants. Bell was lying on the floor when she saw him, and she said that he was struck while he was handcuffed. She said her husband was dragged down the stairs and thrown into the bottom of a car.

Mrs. Bell exhibited to the jury the shirt her husband had worn and also the sheet from the bed. They were both bloodstained. Mrs. Bell said she had been mistaken about Ray Richards being one of the policemen concerned in the beating.

James Hill, a tinworker, said that he was in front of a barbershop adjoining the Bell home when the police arrived. He had not heard any disturbance about the place. After finding the number they were looking for one of them peered under a window curtain. The police then entered the house and witness soon heard yells and sounds as of some one getting a beating.

"Did it sound like some one striking a body?" was asked.

"No," he replied, "it sounded like some one striking a head."

Frank Wagner, barber in the house adjoining Bell's said that everything had been quiet about the place until the police arrived. He had heard the beating. Court adjourned for lunch.

FAITH

From all indications, at the present time, it looks as though our Country is about to have a change in business, which will mean better times, more employment and a greater amount of money put into circulation.

We hope that the American people will profit by the lessons they learned during the last depression, and in place of spending to the limit and even beyond the limit, the money they earn, that they will put some away for a rainy day, and when the next hard times or depression comes, they will feel much more independent than if they had spent everything they earned.

A penny saved is two earned.

FARVER-PRESTON WEDDING SATURDAY

The autumnal theme marked one of the prettiest of early fall weddings Saturday evening in the Highland U. P. church which is of interest to many, the principals being Miss Ione Farver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Farver of Laurel boulevard and Walter D. Preston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse H. Preston of North Crawford avenue. While the occasion was quietly celebrated in the presence of a few close friends and relatives of the couple, it was especially impressive with its note of dignity and simplicity.

The vows were plighted at 5 o'clock with Dr. D. L. Ferguson, pastor, reading the single ring service.

For her wedding, the bride was attractive in a costume suit of chestnut brown wool trimmed in lynx with black accessories, and her chic hat of doe skin, matched. Completing her attire was a shoulder bouquet of yellow roses. Miss Evelyn Brandt as maid of honor and only attendant, was attired in a fuschia wool dress with matching hat, and other accompaniments in black. Her shoulder corsage was of pink roses.

Gunar Swanson of New York City and formerly of New Castle, served the groom as best man.

Supplementing the ceremnoy, a wedding dinner for the bridal party and several guests was held at The Castleton. The nuptial theme predominated in all appointments. Immediately afterwards, the couple departed on a trip through the east, and at its conclusion will take up residence in New York City, where the groom is associated in the offices of the Prudential Financial Corporation. She has been employed with the William F. Moody company here as bookkeeper.

Since the news of their engagement was made known, a series of lovely showers and parties were given in honor of the bride. They have received an array of beautiful and serviceable gifts for their new home, further testifying to the esteem in which they are held by their circle of friends.

MISS RAE HAMMOND WEDS AT YOUNGSTOWN

Of interest to many New Castleites is the elaborate wedding which took place in the First Christian church at Youngstown Saturday evening at seven, when Miss Rae Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Hammond of the Ohio city, became the bride of John L. Davies, III, in a candlelight ceremony which was attended by guests numbering over 500. Rev. Eugene C. Beach read the service.

A Vionnet model of bridal velvet, designed with high shirred neckline and leg o' mutton sleeves, and an illusion veal was worn by the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. Her five pretty attendants, Mrs. James R. Shutts as matron of honor, Mr. Davies' sister, Miss Sue Davies, Miss Virginia Williams, Miss Margaret Alcorn and Miss Marian Stillman of New York City, as bridesmaids, were gowned alike in Alix models of salvia blue velvet and diminutive flower hats with matching circular face veils. They carried salvia blue velvet barrel-shaped muffs, holding cascades of Picardy gladioli florets and Roosevelt roses, salmon pink in color. White orchids showered with valley lilies formed the bride's bouquet, and she wore a double strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Peter VanDyke Davies served as his brother's best man, and the bride's brother, Robert M. Hammond, Mrs. Davies' cousin, Douglas Garvin McMillin, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Edward Ennis of Buffalo, N. Y., and James R. Shutts ushered.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Porter Dale, a cousin of Mrs. Hammond's, preceding and during the ceremony.

Over 175 guests were received at the reception afterwards in the Ohio Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Davies are motoring through the South and East on a post-nuptial tour. At its conclusion they will be at home to friends at 328 West Glenaven avenue, in the Ohio city.

The bride, a graduate of South High and Lake Erie college, has been a teacher of physical education at Lincoln school in Youngstown. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Tidball of North Crawford avenue and Mrs. Ella McCreary of Winter avenue, and a cousin of Mrs. James Matthews of Winslow avenue, all of New Castle. They, with others from here, attended the wedding ceremony.

The groom attended the University of Virginia and the University of Alabama and is a member of Delta Chi social fraternity and Alpha Kappa Psi professional fraternity. He is a metallurgist with the Republic Steel corporation.

FIFTY-SIXTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY PLANNED

On Thursday, September 28, Mr. and Mrs. Hulbert Robinson, of the Pulaski road, will celebrate their 56th wedding anniversary, at their home.

Of special interest is the fact that Mr. Robinson was born in Pulaski township on January 25, 1861 and has always lived in Lawrence County. He states that he has seen many changes in his life. His grandfather had a farm in Pulaski township, and his father had a farm in Neshannock Twp. There was no bridge across the Shenango river at Nashua then and in order to cross, the horses were forced to swim. Mr. Robinson was just a small boy when he drove horses on the canal from New Castle to Sharon. He was a farmer by occupation until a year ago when he sold his farm and retired.

DOMESTIC BUSINESS

REVIEWING the current steel market, The Iron Age states that "comparatively little of the heavy inflow of tonnage has come from abroad." According to its analysis, domestic users "had been running their inventories on a hand-to-mouth basis," but on the declaration of war immediately acted to protect themselves, while some moved "to speculate by ordering more than their normal requirements." In short, steel buyers obeyed somewhat the same impulse that sent household buyers to the retail markets in a rush for foodstuffs.

What has happened to the steel business has occurred in other basic industries and for precisely the same reasons—low inventories and fear of the immediate effects of war on exports and prices. Happily there is now apparent a saner consideration of the statistical factors with respect to supplies.

Giving impetus to the buying spurt, perhaps, was the fact that a widespread recovery from the recession that began late in 1937 had been under way for months. Most indices indicate that this momevent is continuing, with dependence less on war demand prospects than on improved domestic conditions. In August the electric power index touched a new high since October, 1937, and railroad loadings showed a substantial advance.

NOW COMES SEASON OF BAKED AIR

In most of the territory of the United States, some form of central heating is considered desirable and necessary in winter. Thereby it becomes possible to live in comfort in cold climates, and winter loses much of its terror.

And, yet, because people are careless about ventilation and about preserving the natural humidity of the air, the majority of these homes supply the people with baked air, in which the natural moisture is dried out, rendering the inmates subject to the multiude of ills which they get in winter.

The human body was not meant to live in such artificial atmospheric conditions as are produced in winter in the majority of homes. If these folks do not ventilate their rooms properly, or see that their air has the needed moisture, Old Man Grip will lay them low.

NEW WORLD SOLIDARITY

While grabbing their neighbors' territory, the Nazis are sacrificing foreign trade conquests no less valuable. Germany at present, and probably for a long time to come, has shut herself off from a world trade which she had slowly won back, with much effort, after the last war.

It is inevitable that countries now at peace, with access to those lost markets, should take advantage of their opportunity. This is especially true of the United States with respect to Latin-America. Present world perils are driving all the free American countries closer together, not merely for self-defense but for mutual and profitable exchange of goods. There is developing a "common front" in the New World, economically as well as politically.

This movement is naturally discussed and promoted by the Conference of American Republics at Panama City. It affords a good opportunity to readjust lost markets and create new ones, far from the perils of Europe and Asia, in the prosperous and sheltered regions of our own hemisphere.

Here is a situation, unique in the world, where "ideologies" go hand in hand with mutual interest and profit. What Old World nations are scheming and fighting to achieve, this favored hemisphere already possesses. All that we have to do , in order to assume the future and reap the full benefits, is to strengthen our co-operation.

CANADA'S WAR EFFORT

Canada is attacking its war problem with a vigor and an exhibition of national concord that shows the country united behind the declaration of war which had almost unanimous support in Parliament.

Parliament has passed the initial appropriation of $100,000,000—just a starter, for the last war cost it $2,000,000,000—and the effort this time is likely to be of greater scope.

Trading with the enemy has been prohibited in the most thorough fashion and all German property put under government control.

The chief immediate effort, in addition to providing for the national defense, will be to keep a stream of food, munitions, and other essential war supplies moving across the Atlantic. A ministry of munitions and supply has been established to direct this work.

Continental Canada itself may be immune at this time from direct naval or air attack. But there are outlying possessions of both Britain and France which might become objectives of submarine enterprises and Canada will undertake their defense. The Dominion will also have to be on its guard against conspiracy by possible Nazi sympathizers, intended to damage Canadian munitions centers or means of communications.

It is announced that the matter of an expeditionary force is being considered. Before conscription was introduced in 1917, Canada sent volunteer expeditionary forces which made an admirable record for gallantry and effectiveness in fighting in Flanders and elsewhere on the Western Front.

It had already decided there would be no conscription this time. There is widespread opposition to compulsory participation of combatant forces overseas and the leaders of both parties have agreed that its imposition at this time would impair national unity. It made trouble in the World War, causing riots in Quebec which troops had to be called out to suppress.

But the Dominion is expected to contribute on a volunteer [illegible] air forces which will make a substantial addition to the British-French strength in this arm on the Western Front.

The Dominion seems to fear as expressions of leaders of both parties indicate that a power is arising in the Old World that threatens democracy and security in the New, if not checked. Therefore it feels, when the mother country is attacked, a compulsion to aid going beyond the common ties of association in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

And yet, the fellows who hold the big jobs never have time to improve their minds.

Another thing the world needs is a medal for heroic endurance to reward the taxpayer.

Every successful man is educated. Bees have no book learning, but you never saw one that wasn't an expert.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SOLVING CHILD'S ARITHMETIC TROUBLES

Ever so many parents write me about the child who, along about the fourth or fifth grade, has dire trouble with arithmetic. In the light of my personal check on many such cases, I can safely tell these parents that it is almost certain that the child in question has not yet learned accurately by heart the 100 simple addition facts and the 100 simple subtraction facts, such as seven and six are 13; nine from 14 leaves five.

The parent is advised to make cards of these number facts to help the child learn them. The parent should have the child say over and over to himself the whole combination, including the sum or difference, until he knows all these facts by heart. But he should attack only three or four of these number facts at a sitting. I also would advise the parent to have the child stick to the addition facts until the whole hundred of them are mastered, and not have him study the addition and subtraction facts together; this to avoid confusion.

Usually the child troubled by arithmetic finds his trouble growing worse because he is put under speed tests, being shown only the two numbers to be added, for example, eight and nine, without the sum, 17. He is forced to make an answer quickly, practicing in mistakes. But if you help the child calmly learn the whole combination by heart, he will be able to say it quickly when put under the watch at school. Merely pray that he will be saved from this speed ordeal there. Say nothing to the teacher or to the child about the way she does. She probably has, terrible to relate, been trained to indulge in this wasteful, horrible, tortuous practice.

Prevent Counting Habit

Curiously enough, some "experts" who have been training teachers argue that speed tests in number work are desirable in order to correct the child of the pernicious counting habit (preventing him from saying to himself as he sees seven and five, for example, "eight, nine, 10, 11, 12"). One such expert replied to me, when I asked him how we might correct the counting habit. "Make 'em go like the devil." But hurrying the child only makes him gamble on the answer and feel miserable when he doesn't do so quickly. Speed pressure doesn't solve his problem; it only makes this problem worse.

From coast to coast young children are taught to count while they learn to add and subtract. Then, after a few years of practice at counting as they add or subtract, these children are told, "It is not nice to count; this bad habit must be cured. Therefore, we must give you this bitter medicine. Come on and take it."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Do you think a child should be paid for helping with the regular jobs around the home?

A. As a rule, no.

Q. How may we best motivate a poor reader to practice reading from very easy material

A. By inducing him to read to a child under six to entertain him.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

MUTUAL RELIEF

There are some people who think that the citizens of Vermont don't belong—they don't vote for the New Deal; they don't agree to any of the Administration's policies. They seem to be very much in a class by themselves. However, Vermonters have a habit of taking care of themselves. There are not many people in Vermont on Relief. It still seems to be the abode of ancient virtues which appear to be wearing thin elsewhere.

Last winter a Vermonter drove to a neighbor's and asked: "How about a little wood? I've been sick and I'm down."

The neighbor waved his hand toward the woodpile. "Help yourself. Fill your sleigh any time."

This summer the borrower of the wood, carrying his pitchfork, ambled down the road. "Seen you hayin'," he said, "and I thought I'd work out that wood." At the end of the fourth day he figured accounts were even and shook hands on it.

"All square now," he said, "but I'll do ye an ax helve next winter—for interest."

There ought to be a great many more Vermonters scattered about these United States.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:53. Sun rises tomorrow 5:51.

The fellow who is in a position to declare he don't care what happens often has the best of it. It is those who do care what happens who bear the burden.

Say, man, don't forget the fall housecleaning has to be done if it is not already under way. Get your temper under control.

A beauty expert declares that even cleverly applied makeup requires a clean surface or it fails to produce what is wanted. A clean face often looks much better than one that is plastered with dope.

A man may dress to look young but he gives himself away by losing interest in a lady when he finds out she's a liar.

An open door will let in flies and a lot of other things one would like to swat.

A boy at Weigletown calls his pig Ink because he is always running out of the pen.

GOLF

The game originated in Scotland and the weather over there is very inclement to say the best. Experienced golfers never started out for a round without a full bottle of that pure Scotch. They took a small medicinal nip at each tee, and soon found that one bottle contained exactly 18 of the medicinal nips. And that is why every course has 18 holes.

Which reminds me of that old one about the golf widow. She had buried seven husbands and had her heart set on completing the full 18 holes.

Office Grouch: "It's getting so that being a queen of this or that community is about as much distinction for a girl as wearing a skirt.

It's a good thing to keep politics out of war. Politics make a lot of trouble even when used politically.

When only half the people who apply for an auto driver's test get the license to drive, it's a pretty good sign that those who are giving the tests are doing their stuff right.

A bird on the West Side reported to the police that his lawn mower had been stolen. The police suspect that he hid it.

"It's a pretty safe guess that the young man who is good to his sister would make a good husband" remarked Office Philosopher.

WANTED TO BE FAIR

Story heard on municipal golf course:

They sliced their drives into the rough and went in search of the balls. They searched for a long time without any success, a kindly old lady watching them with sympathetic interest.

Finally, after the search had lasted half an hour, the dear old lady spoke to them:

"I don't want to bother you, gentlemen," she said quietly, "but would it be cheating if I told you where they are?"

A local man who has tried it both ways says it is costly to have your car overhauled whether by a mechanic or traffic cop.

REALLY NEW DEAL

Why doesn't someone start a new deal for bridegrooms by giving them "showers." Did you ever hear of one? If not, just read this one from the Eskridge, Kan., Independent:

"In honor of the approaching marriage last Saturday evening of Bill Turnbull, a surprise shower was given in his home as he came for his dinner at noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Peoples, where he had been boarding for several months. A dozen or more friends gave him several wrapped packages to be opened before he could partake of the meal prepared in his honor. Bill thought for a bridegroom to have a shower was something out of the ordinary, and he was the first ever to enjoy such an occasion."

Dogs are only tied up after some of them try to eat up a few people. It's too late then for those bitten but the heads of the dogs have to be sent somewhere to find out if they were mad.

A local waitress was asked by her boy friend to "name the day." She said she couldn't do that, as she worked at night.

Having your heating plant made in good order now may save you a lot of trouble later when you want the heat.

FARE ENOUGH

She was riding on the train with her son, and when the conductor came by she said. "A fare for me and a half fare for the boy."

The conductor looked at the boy. "Lady, that boy's got long pants on," he said.

"Very well" said the lady. "In that case a full fare for the boy and a half fare for me."

In the city prison at Columbus, O., they have a room in which there are magazines, flowers and a telephone. The host and hostesses, however, are policemen.

We heard a noted speaker say in a speech not long ago that it would be very easy to fill the churches every Sunday if they just had good singing and more of it, and good speakers and less of it.

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

A famous philosopher classified humans by what they laugh at and I can almost correctly classify them by their manner of laughing. If I hear behind me a silly, coughy laugh continued in the inhalations as well as exhalations, I will turn around and see a sub-deb of high school age. But let me hear a shrill, calliopic shriek and I can safely bet ten to one that the perpetrator is a Stella Dallas or Sadie Thompson.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel Please outline the proper form of invitation to a baby's christening.—Dot.

Answer: Ordinarily, only relatives and close friends are invited to a chistening, in which case invitations either by note or by telephone are sufficient. However, when the ceremony is formal, engraved invitations should be worded as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith
request the pleasure of your company
at the christening of their daughter
on Sunday, the first of October
(address)

There are a lot of people who say little but remember long.

A local man was telling his barber that he thought he would stay at home this winter, as New Castle was just as good a place to be as any place he had ever been. "I feel somewhat the same way," said the barber. "To tell you the truth, I am a little low on cash, too."

EXAGGERATION

"Gee, mother you ought to see that car that just went by" said the boy. "It's as big as a house."

"Johnny," reproved mother. "How oten have I told you not to exaggerate that way? I've told you forty million times about that habit of yours."

Many a man who thinks he is only a pebble in some girl's life should try being a little brother, advises Flossie Fernfrill who ought to know.

The word "liar" is being freely used in Europe just now. That word is a fighting word. The word "fool" is a real word to make a fight. Of course, there is also a sort of a group of words used so often, but when analyzed they don't mean anything, but they cause fights.

At the beginning of the World War, Americans were not anti-German. There has been a big change in American sentiment since the starting of the last war. They are anti now all right.

NATIONAL TRENDS

Joe tells about the eight men who were wrecked on an island and rescued a year later.

The two Irishmen had fought twice a day while on the island.

The two Scots had founded a Caledonian Society.

The two Englishmen had not spoken to each other. No one had introduced them.

The two Americans had opened a real estate agency, laid out a town-site, organized a Kiwanis club, a chamber of commerce and had set up a small still in the cellar.

Knee action was discovered by the trapeze performer.

No sooner does a man learn to paddle his own canoe than he has a hankering for a motorboat.

NOT SO MUCH

Nature of itself doesn't mean to be so very generous we heard at a speech the other day. Which reminds us of the story about the parson who came along and found a parishioner working in a garden.

"Mighty fine place you have there, Mr. Jones" said the parson. "You certainly should thank the Almighty for it."

"Guess you're right, parson" said Jones, somewhat dubiously. "But just the same you should have seen this field when the Almighty had it all to itself."

It may be that aristocrats are born that way. No ordinary person can eat breakfast in bed without making a mess of things.

There's always something. If your stock goes back up to $100 a share, they are only 59-cent dollars this time.

What's What At A Glance

Senator Borah Stealing Show
Leads Battle For Neutrality
Star Performer In Extra Session

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Senator Borah is the star performer at this extra session of congress. Even before the session's opening the indications had begun to be that he'd lose his fight to maintain unqualified American neutrality in the present world situation. President Roosevelt, demanding modification of the Nye neutrality law, hadn't exactly out-argued him, but as the time neared for the lawmakers to convene it had grown pretty apparent that public sentiment favored the presidential side of the case regardless of reasoning, pro or con.

All the same, the Idaho statesman has put up a formidable scrap. He undoubtedly has more influence with his fellow legislators than any other single individual on Capitol Hill, but not enough to offset the odds against him. He has enough, though, to give the administration an anxious spell of it. He's like a warrior who goes down to defeat after having piled up a tremendous stack of badly-damaged opponets. Losing, under such circumstances, isn't a bit discreditable.

Borah Versus Roosevelt

Senator Borah, as I've said, is the extra session's star performer. I mean to say, he's its star congressional performer. He out-stars any and all others in the ultra-isolationist group and he out-stars any particular figure in the opposition group—on the Hill. Star for star, he doesn't necessarily out-star the president, down in the White House. F. D.'s performance has been excellent. Essentially, it's a contest between him and the Idaho senator.

However, their respective followings have to be taken into consideration.

At the last regular session congress certainly was split about 50-50 on the neutrality issue, but even then I surmise that the home folk were strongly anti-Hitler. Today, assuredly, they are much more so. Meanwhile, the senators and representatives have visited their various home states and districts, sopping up the popular reaction. The natural conclusion is that the 50-50 balance has been upset—that the legislators are better disposed than they were toward doing any little thing they can (short of actual war participation) in the direction of sticking it into Adolf.

President Roosevelt has played this just right, from the standpoint of neutrality modification—to the effect that he's for neutrality but can't ask anybody not to have his proper sympathies—he knows what they are.

Senator Borah makes an equally good talker, but it's clear that he's in the minority class. I know plenty of Americans who at least were not outright anti-German in 1914, but who are emphatically so now. Not that they want to get into the war, but they want to be as non-belligerently helpful to the democracies as they can.

That Neutrality Law

Senator Gerald P. Nye invented our present neutrality law.

Theoretically, he should be its principal defender. He does defend it competently, but he doesn't defend it with the weight of Senator Borah's gunfire.

If that law had been a "Borah law" it would have been a darned sight more substantial. Nye evolved it out of an investigation of the last war's profiteering. It was a dandy investigation. Nye is one of the best congressional investigators congress ever had. But, somehow, he isn't the ideal sponsor of capitally important new laws. I know why, too; he rates as a "young senator"—immature.

Next to Borah, Senator Hiram Johnson of California was the bird to have fathered that law. Then I'd say, Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, a Democrat. Senator Charles G. Norris would have been grand, but he's a New Dealer.

If there hadn't been an American neutrality law it would have been regarded as a mere oversight—as of no international consequence either way.

However, as soon as the act was passed it immediately became apparent that it was pro-German and anti-Anglo-French. If it's repealed, its repeal is sure to be interpreted as pro-democratic and anti-totalitarian—anti-Hitler.

We'll be "damned if we do and damned if we don't," as the saying is.

PLAINT OF A CURIOUS MAN

"Not enough hours in a day," explained he:
"Not enough weeks in a month or a year:
Never I'll see all I'm anxious to see.
Never I'll hear all I'm eager to hear.

"Why must the body so speedly tire?
Why must the flesh be so foolish and weak?
Why must we mortals so slowly acquire
The few grains of wisdom we're prompted to seek?

"Why must we stop when the chase is so sweet?
Why must we rest when there's so much to learn?
Surely if man would life's lesson complete
Back to this earth must his spirit return."

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

The Same Men

WASHINGTON, September 25.

AS the battle over the embargo begins certain basic facts are so clear—or at least should be—that contention concerning them seems more or less ruled out. However, through the flood of words soon to descend upon us, they need to be kept in mind, and it seems worth while to restate them simply.

ONE is that the President and those who support him in the effort to lift the embargo are as convinced that that is the way to keep us out of war as Senator Borah and his isolationist colleagues are certain that it will put us in. Another is that if the Roosevelt-Hull program prevails it will aid the British and French; if it fails it will be advantageous to Germany. It ought to be possible to concede these two indisputable facts without impugning Mr. Roosevelt's sincerity about the first or regarding Mr. Borah and his friends as pro-Hitler because of the second. To do either is to commit a great injustice. The sincerity of the leaders on both sides is real.

THERE are illogicalities and weaknesses in the positions of both which will become apparent in the debate, but the above statements will remain true and no amount of argument should be allowed to blur them. In the Senate, where the real struggle will take place, it seems clear that the President will be supported by a bipartisan majority. It is also clear that sentiment in the country—now—is strongly behind his proposals. The people as a whole want to aid Britain and France—in every way "short of war." However, it is equally clear that the oratorical advantage in the Senate will be on the other side. The Administration has no one who in eloquence or in argument equals Borah, Johnson, Vandenberg, Clarke or La Follette. They are not only the most forceful speakers but the most determined and resourceful of the Senators.

AS the situation is considered, it is impossible not to recall the similarity to the League of Nations battle in the Senate twenty years ago when Woodrow Wilson was President. Unquestionably, this is the most vital question of foreign policy that has arisen in this country since that day. Then, as now, the President had with him a majority of the country and a majority of the Senate. Then, as now, he was opposed by a band of able, determined, resourceful men. That under those circumstances Mr. Wilson was defeated, most persons believe, was due to the utter inflexibility with which he insisted upon having the thing he wanted exactly as he wanted it, and rejected the possible compromises his friends felt desirable.

IT is not likely that history will repeat itself in that way. Nevertheless, it is interesting to note that Senators Borah and Johnson—two of the leaders of the Senate opposition today in this matter upon which so much depends—were leaders in the fight twenty years ago, which prevented the United States from entering the League of Nations. The outcome of that fight was the wreckage of the only great constructive proposal for abolishing war that existed in the world. The outcome of that fight was to render futile what, with our weight behind it, might have become an effective instrument for the permanent preservation of peace.

IN the opinion of many, had Mr. Wilson won instead of lost his fight there would not today be raging the sort of conflagration which is devouring Europe and menacing us. It seems incredible that after twenty years the same men could again thwart the will of the American people and affect the destinies not only of this nation but the world. Yet, here they are—able, aged, convinced that they are right and that the great weight of nonpartisan and informed opinion, which is on the other side, is wrong.

IT seems incredible that these men, a small minority in the Senate and representing a minority in the country, again can defeat an American President supported by popular sentiment, and divert this nation from the course which the majority agrees is in the interests of peace and for the national good. Yet, that's what they aim to do. The grotesqueness of the situation is not lessened by the fact that their motives are not selfish and their patriotism beyond question.

Police Arrest 12, Seize Akron Slots After 'Music War'

AKRON, O., Oct. 19—Sweeping through the clubs and night spots, police early today pushed a "war" on slot machines here.

Arrests reached the dozen mark as repeated trips of the police patrol ran the number of confiscated "one armed bandits" into several dozens.

Five arrests were made after raiding squads descended on four places with "slots."

One fraternal club was hit a second time by the raiders after an initial foray there yesterday brought seizure of three machines and one arrest on a gambling paraphernalia possession charge.

Police activity was reported stirred by a "music war" in which a distributor of song boxes complained that his customers began to feel the weight of a strong-arm squad equipped with stench bombs following his refusal to join an association.

Home-made stench bombs were thrown through the window at two cafes.

District Mines Boost Activity

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Oct. 19.—A general 60 per cent increase in coal production over a similar period last year, as well as a 50 per cent rise in employment, is noted in a survey of the many small mines in the Butler-Venango-Mercer field which centers here. Many mines, operated in a small way in recent years, have been re-equipped with modern machinery to meet the demand stimulated by the boom in the steel industry.

M. W. Bowie, for 46 years a coal operator here, said that his three mines produced 3,760 tons last month, as compared with 1,954 tons during the same period last year. Last year he employed 57 miners, as compared with 87 at present.

Officers Use Airplane To Scout Entrances To Swamp

An airplane was used in the investigation of the headless body mystery of the West Pittsburg swamp yesterday afternoon. However, no new angles in the crime were uncovered.

The plane, piloted by William Ice, was impressed into service by District Attorney John G. Lamoree to determine how many routes the slayers could have used to reach the murder scene.

State Motor Police Corporal William Brush and R. O. McCullough, with County Detective Paul Welsh and Lamoree viewed the swamp from the air.

They believed that the only way the body could have been taken to where it was found was by walking from the P. & L. E. tracks, north from West Pittsburg or south from the pottery or round-house.

The officers talked to an elderly man who knows the swamp in its entirety. He informed them there were no roads or "beaten trails" to or near the scene of the murder.

Meanwhile inquiries from different places throughout the country seeking information concerning missing persons continued to pour into county, state and city offices.

STATISTICS ON TEXAS HEN

(International News Service)

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—The average hen in Texas doesn't pay for the cost of feeding and raising it, J. D. Sykes, poultry co-ordinator of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, declared. Sykes told a convention of the Texas Baby Chick Association that figures show a hen in Texas may be expected to lay ninety eggs a year and the owner required a 100-egg output to break even. The national average, he said is 82 eggs, per year.

ONE OF MANY—Harvard's Mr. Lee, No. 45, comes through for one of those many touchdowns against Chicago.

High Starting Lineup Will Be Changed Friday

Tommy Gilboy Will Be At Quarter, Jerry Will Play Left Guard; Goclano May Start

WASHINGTON HIGH HAS BIG TEAM

The New Castle High starting eleven for Friday night will undergo several changes, it was announced today by Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh—not because of the defeat by Johnstown—but rather by necessity, owing to a few injuries.

Freddy McKee, the lad who started at quarter last week and did a swell job, suffeed an injured hand and will not be in shape for the Washington game. His place at quarter will fall to Tommy Gilboy, who has been playing left guard. It will be Gilboy's first game as a backfield man, and reports are that he is showing up fine.

The vacancy at the left guard post will be filled by Tom Jerry, a newcomer this year, who has shown quite a bit of stuff and warrants a starting berth, accoding to Coach Bridenbaugh. There may be a newcomer at one of the end positions this week, a lad by the name of Goclano, who has shown ability to handle an end job and may be at either one of the ends, it was strongly intimated. Cenname, the left end, has a back injury that may force him to the bench.

Washington High will bring a big team to New Castle. They have had just a mediocre season. Nevertheless, any team that plays New Castle always plays its best game, and the contest here tomorrow night under the lights at Taggart stadium should be a good one. New Castle and Washington have always played close games. Last year the locals eked out a 7 to 6 win.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Frankie Moran, the local featherweight who is capable of landing a kayo with either hand, demonstrated his hitting ability when he met Bus Lostetter of McKeesport in Rayen-Wood auditorium, Tuesday evening. He cracked Bus on the chin in the opening round and so far as Lostetter was concerned the lights in the auditorium were suddenly extinguished. Whether or not Frankie can do this in his next meeting with Billy Murray remains an enigma. Despite the award of a decision to Moran some weeks ago the belief of the writer is that Murray should have had the nod. Some others do not opine this way. They claim the third knockdown scored by Moran was sufficient to win the award.

It might be recalled that there was several decades ago a great fighter, by the name of Billy Murray. He was called the Petaluma Chicken and was managed by Jack Kearns who piloted Jack Dempsey to the peak of the pugilistic world. Murray fought George Chip in California. In the first part of the first fight, Murray swarmed like a bee over George, who, cold from the Pacific ocean breeze, couldn't get going until late in the fight when he flashed a knockout. In the second fight Chip turned the trick more easily. Will the Murray-Moran fight go off as it did a few weeks ago or will Moran come forth with a knockout. Of the two Moran is the best puncher. Murray the best boxer.

Remember Long Jack Trammel, the ebony boy of Youngstown, of whom great things were expected until Tiger Fox, we believe, handed him a Waterloo? He is back in the game having scored a technical kayo over Salvatore Ruggirello of New York in two stanzas in East Liverpool. The referee, Jack Dempsey, gave the battle to Long Jack when Sal was unable to come out for the third round.

Mickie Rubin, the wild-swinging Galento of New Castle is taking his meals through a soup spoon these days, Benny Bartle, victor over Rubin having inflicted a gash on the inside of Mick's upper lip. However, this hasn't kept Rubin silent. When he heard the boys along the fistic rialto talking about his fight, he approached a couple and is reported to have said: "I'll flatten that lemon next time". Sounds like cruel words from the vanquished. Perhaps Rubin will now settle down to real training and map out a campaign of battle that will bring him victory instead of a socking. "The trouble with Rubin is, he depends upon one punch, and is willing to take a score to win" said Matchmaker Tom Leach. In our recollection there have been very few one punch, one round lads in the ring. Dempsey and Louis required only one round to win some fights, but they hit properly. As soon as Mickie learns he must hit properly and keep from being hit, then will his star ascend. Meanwhile in Ellwood City, Benny Bartle is "sawing wood," saying nothing but looking forward to another fight.

Two boys who fought champions were in the ring at the same time the other night. Tom McMahon boxed Jess Willard who dethroned Jack Johnson. Patsy Brannigan battled Kid Williams, Johnny Kilbane, Jimmy Walsh and others. Pat got a great hand from the fans when Bugs Walthers the announcer gave him a send-off. Brannigan then unfurled Al Bodich who scored several knockdowns then a knockout. Brannigan intends to continue totoring the Pittsburgh lad.

Penn State Will Play At Cornell

Big Game Looms For Nittany Lions On Saturday—Team Has Several Cripples

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, Oct. 19—Comparatively free from the injury jinx this season, trouble has hit Penn State's football squad all at once prior to the important Cornell game.

Carl Stravinski, 210-pound junior tackle and one of State's mainstays on the forward wall, was hurt in the Lehigh game and will be unable to play at all against the Big Red. His loss has caused a serious dearth of tackle material, since it was recently learned that an injured leg will keep Chuck Medlar, 200-pound sophomore tackle, out of play indefinitely.

Three other players suffered minor injuries against Lehigh, but all were reserves and it is possible that they will be able to make the trip to Ithaca. Bill Smaltz, passing ace and reserve fullback, twisted his ankle and has stayed out of heavy work all week, while Jack Day, reserve wingback, and Bill Debler, third string fullback, suffered minor bruises.

Penn State has also lost a promising reserve backfield player, Carl Kins, who made a touchdown against Lehigh and caught three passes, broke his leg in practice Monday and will be out for the season.

Kins, who was an excellent passer as well as receiver, lives in Hollidaysburg. He was a freshman last year at the Penn State forestry school at Mont Alto. He was to play quarterback on the Lion junior varsity against the Cornell jayvees this Friday.

Local Elevens Set For Stiff Clashes

Ben Franklin At Sharon Today; Three Games Here On Friday

LOCAL TEAMS FACE EIGHT GRID FOES

Physically fit following a series of intensive drills, Lawrence County gridiron teams eagerly await the starting whistle, for their eight stiff tussle cards for today, Friday and Saturday.

Ben Franklin junior high goes to the front first, meeting Sharon junior high, this afternoon at Sharon. Both aggregations boast of speed, merchants, assuring a thrill packed battle.

Three tiffs will be played on local grounds, tomorrow afternoon. In daylight clashes, Zelienople's husky combination marches against Union Township high, on Union field at 2.15 o'clock. Shenango Township entertains a scrappy Mars eleven, on Shenango field starting at 2:15 o'clock. Under the moonlight, if any shows up, New Castle's "Red Hurricanes" face Washington's "Little Presidents" at 8 o'clock.

Mahoningtown Junior high invades the Campbell, Ohio, lair for a skirmish with the classy Campbell junior high edition, in a daylight number. After dropping a decision to George Washington, the "Railroaders" will step along the chalk lines bent on hitting the winning column.

One of the most attractive grid programs of the season is listed for Saturday afternoon. Westminster's Titans play hosts to their bitter rivals, Geneva's Convenanters, at New Wilmington. In Ellwood City, Midland faces Ellwood's rough Wolverines while Bessemer high is determined to spoil East Brady's undefeated record at Bessemer.

Sharline Wings Are Fast Team

The Wabash Bears, local semi-pro football team, will have to be on their toes this coming Sunday to upset the strong Sharline Wings, a colored team holding the 1939 Northeastern Ohio championship. The game Sunday at the E. & A. field will start at 3 o'clock.

Coaches Harry Toscano and Blackie Adamo have been drilling the Bears hard every night this week at the E. & A. field and hope to have the Mahoningtown lads letter perfect by Sunday, according to Manager Willie Domenick.

Local tid-bits: Alec Shellogg, formerly of the Chicago Bears and now a member of the Brooklyn Dodgers pro grid team, has fully recovered from an ankle injury. . . . Massillon high's Tigers have won 18 straight and not 44 in a row as one of the best known columnists recently reported. New Castle spilled the Ohioans in 1937, 7-0. . . . To Robert C. Davies, R. F. D. No. 1: In the first Conn-Bettina fight, Conn was awarded nine rounds, the remaining six going to Bettina. Thanks for letter.

"How's Slippery Rock doin?" Because of its funnybone-tickling name, Slippery Rock draws the brass ring for being the best known little grid team in the land. When a group of bigwig mentors gather for a chin fest, the question pops up, "How's Slippery Rock doin?" The Rockets have supplanted Knox as the best known little grid team in the nation. P. S. Slippery Rock is doin fine, thank you. Undefeated and untied.

Grid Tocktale: Pitt's 14-13 victory over Duke marked the seventh time in history that the Panthers won by a one-point margin. . . . Coach Mal Stevens' New York university elevens have yet to record a victory over a Southern aggregation. . . . Saturday's clash between Arizona and Loyola of California, carded for Phoenix, has been postponed. Two of Loyola's players have been stricken with infantile paralysis.

Bits of this and that: Within 18 months, Jack Dempsey becomes a millionaire again. Six years ago, the former Manassa Mauler was nearly broke. Today, he is worth about $750,000. . . . "Lefty" Grove's pet hobby is to collect the last ball thrown in every game in which he pitches. His collection numbers 286. . . . Baseball chatter: Don't be surprised if Joe Medwick moves his trunk to Brooklyn. Insiders say Ducky's legs are shot.

Pitt Is Favored Over Duquesne

Northwestern Favored To Trim Wisconsin For First Victory Of Year

BETTORS HAVE HAD HARD TIME

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—There are phonies in price-making as there are in almost any other line of endeavor. Some firms make a habit of quoting prices to get some free advertising. But they never accept a bet.

These are the people who glibly quote Harvard as a 4 to 1 favorite oven Penn. This, of course, is silly. The Broadway bookies who actually will take any bet you care to make quote no such outlandish odds. Their price on the Harvard-Penn is 9 to 10 and you pick 'em.

You will find the same odds quoted on Drake and Iowa State; Colorado and Colorado Aggies; Detroit and North Carolina State and Baylor and Nebraska.

Prosperous Year

The lads who definitely do not want any advertising—especially any which might lead Uncle Sam's income tax bureau to do a little investigating—quote Temple at 6 to 5 over Boston College, Texas over Arkansas and Washington over Oregon State.

The bookies admit they have had a prosperous season so far and their prices have given a better prospective of future games than the selections of any forecaster. Nevertheless, they seem to be a little out of line on a few of their prices for this week's games.

For instance, they have Northwestern quoted a 7 to 5 favorite over Wisconsin although the Wildcats have yet to score their first point. The bookies tell us that their information is that Northwestern is about due to start clicking. The same price goes for Kansas State over Missouri and Columbia over Princeton.

Some of the phony price-makers actually quoted Minnesota at 5 to 2 over Ohio State. But the Broadway books are making Ohio State the choice at 8 to 5.

Notre Dame Favorite

The same price prevails for Washington State over California and Notre Dame over Navy.

In the 2 to 1 group we find Oklahoma favored over Kansas, Texas Aggies over T. C. U. (that's pretty liberal); Carnegie over N. Y. U. (although N. Y. U. has upset the Tartans many a time); Florida over Maryland, Holy Cross over Brown, Georgetown over Bucknell and Virginia over V. M. I.

Utah is 5 to 2 over Idaho, and the same goes for Indiana over Illinois, S. M. U. over Marquette and Cornell over Penn State.

Pitt is only 12 to 5 over Duquesne but Duke is 18 to 5 over Syracuse.

The first named teams among the following combinations are 3 to 1 favorites: Kentucky-Georgia, Dartmouth-Lafayette; Oregon-Gonzaga; Mississippi-St. Louis, and Tulane-North Carolina.

If you think Montana can beat U. C. L. A. you can have 4 to 1 for your money and if you like Chicago against Michigan you can write your own ticket up as high as 100 to 1.

Titan Back Is Clever Heaver

TONY VALICENTI

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 19.—Westminster college fans are predicting that Tony Valicenti, diminutive Titan back from Mt. Lebanon, may play a "Dom Roselli" role this time for Westminster, against the Covenanters this Saturday at the Blue and White's Homecoming on the New Wilmington field.

Against Slippery Rock last Saturday, Valicenti heaved five straight completed passes, with Pete Evanoff, Erie back, on the receiving end of most of them.

It was Roselli's pass in the closing minutes of play last year that gave Geneva a 6-0 win.

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Pithers Earl Whithill and Jack Russell, veteran American league "cast-offs" were given their unconditional release Wednesday by the Chicago Cubs.

In his second season with the Cubs, Russell won four and lost three in a relief role. Whitehill, a 39-year-old southpaw who spent 15 years in the American league, was obtained as a free agent last season and had a season record of winning four and losing seven.
